THE REED GENEALOGY

DESCENDANTS OF
WILLIAM READE
OF
WEYMOUTH, MASSACHUSETTS

From 1635 to 1902

Which following the descendants of his four sons, for convenience are divided into four branches, namely :

- A. Branch Descendants of his eldest son William, who settled in Abington, Massachusetts.
- W. Branch Descendants of his second son, Thomas, who settled in Weymouth, Massachusetts.
- T. Branch Descendants of his third son John, who settled in Taunton, Massachusetts.
- M. Branch Descendants of his youngest son James, who settled in Middleborough, Massachusetts.

PREFACE

William Reade, our emigrant ancestor, who was born in England in 1605, sailed from London, on July 26, 1635, on the ship "Assurance." He landed at Boston shortly afterwards, and proceeded at once to Wassegusset (now Weymouth), where he located permanently. In a very short time he became prominently identified with the affairs of the new colony.

He was made a freeman on September 2, 1635, and it is a noteworthy coincident that on this very day the General Court, sitting at Boston, passed an order changing the name of the settlement theretofore known as Wassegusset and establishing it as a plantation under the name of Weymouth. On the following day, September 3, the Court ordered the inhabitants of Weymouth to send a deputy to represent them at the General Court. The selection of this deputy does not seem to have been made until the following year. At this early day in the history of the community there seem to have been three distinct opposing factions or elements in the colony, each supported by a strong following, and each desiring to be represented in the Court, and probably as a compromise they determined to send three deputies instead of one, leaving it to the Court to decide which one should be admitted. William Reade, John Bursley and John Upham were the three persons elected. It is supposed that John Bursley represented those who remained of the Gorges Company and friends who followed them; William Reade representing those who came in from other towns in the colony, with an interest centering in the capital, and John Upham those who came with Rev. Joseph Hull and his sympathizers.

At a session of the General Court, held in Boston on Sep-

Summary

The first part of the report deals with the general principles of the theory of the structure of the atom. It is shown that the structure of the atom is determined by the laws of quantum mechanics, which are based on the wave nature of matter. The second part of the report deals with the application of these principles to the structure of the atom.

The third part of the report deals with the application of these principles to the structure of the atom. It is shown that the structure of the atom is determined by the laws of quantum mechanics, which are based on the wave nature of matter. The fourth part of the report deals with the application of these principles to the structure of the atom. It is shown that the structure of the atom is determined by the laws of quantum mechanics, which are based on the wave nature of matter.

The fifth part of the report deals with the application of these principles to the structure of the atom. It is shown that the structure of the atom is determined by the laws of quantum mechanics, which are based on the wave nature of matter. The sixth part of the report deals with the application of these principles to the structure of the atom. It is shown that the structure of the atom is determined by the laws of quantum mechanics, which are based on the wave nature of matter.

tember 8, 1636, these three deputies presented themselves to the Court, and under that date we find among the records of the Court the following order:

“Whereas the town of Waimoth hath sent 3 deputies to this Courte being a very small towne, at the request of the said deputies two of them were dismissed by Court viz: Mr. Bursley and John Upham.”

It may be inferred from the foregoing that William Reade was permitted to take his seat in that body at once, and while his name does not appear among the list of those in attendance at that session, this may be accounted for by the fact that he was admitted after the opening of the Court. He is recorded as being present at the next assembling of the General Court, on December 8, 1636.

From the foregoing it will be noticed that William Reade was Weymouth's first representative or deputy in the General Court.

An interesting and important event which occurred during the session of the Court at which William Reade was admitted to membership was the voting by the Court, on October 28, 1636 (O. S.), or November 7, 1636 (N. S.), of an appropriation for a school or college, which proved to be the establishment of Harvard College, the first institution of learning in the colony, and indeed on the continent. The record of this appropriation reads as follows:

“The Court agreed to give 400£ towards a schoale or college whereof 200 to bee paid the next yeare & 200 when the work is finished & the next Court to appoint wheare & wt. building.”

This action of the Court was a noteworthy one, as it shows the interest of the early settlers in the cause of education. The sum appropriated was a large one in that day, and was double the amount of the entire receipts in any one previous year from taxes, levied by the General Court.

Within the last few years many persons have been interested in looking up the record of their ancestors, to ascertain if they rendered such service or held office, which entitled their descendants to membership in the various patriotic societies of the country.

In this connection it will be seen that all the descendants of William Reade of Weymouth are eligible to membership in the Society of Colonial Wars and kindred societies, having similar requirements for membership, by reason of his service as a member of the General Court of Massachusetts Colony in 1636 and 1638. And as additional title to such membership, the descendants of each of the several branches can claim this right by reason of the several ancestors having been soldiers in the King Philip's war, namely:

William Reed, A 4, was a private in Lieut. Edward Oaks' Company, April 26, 1676.

Thomas Reed, W 7, was a private in Lieut. Gillam's Company, Maj. Savage's command, February to May, 1675-76.

John Reed, T 9, was a private in Capt. Johnson's Company, later Capt. John Jacobs, in 1675.

James Reed, M 10, was a private in Capt. Johnson's Company in 1675, and later, on April 8, 1682, was a member of a military company in Taunton.

Besides these, many other titles to membership can be established by reason of services rendered by ancestors on the maternal side.

Following page 385 the author has inserted a table showing his own ancestry, both paternal and maternal, in which he designates twenty-four ancestors under whom he claims title to membership in the Colonial Wars Society.

Many of our ancestors did service in the French and English Wars, as will be seen by a search of the genealogy, but I have not deemed it necessary to compile a list of them.

Membership in the "Mayflower" Society is highly prized by those who can establish their title to it. It will be seen that about one-half of the descendants of William Reade of Weymouth may claim title to membership in this society, through their maternal ancestor, Esther Thompson, the wife of William Reed, A 4, whose father, John Thompson, married Mary Cook, daughter of Francis Cook, one of the "May-

In the first place, the Government has been flower" Company. Thus all of the A branch (descendants of William Reed 4) are entitled to such membership. This is the largest branch of the four, and indeed about equals the other three combined. In addition to these it will be seen that a considerable number of the descendants of the M branch (descendants of James Reed 10) can claim title through Sarah Warren, wife of William Reed, M 121. She was a lineal descendant of Richard Warren, one of the signers of the compact in the cabin of the "Mayflower," as is shown by a sketch of her on page 82.

On page 407 will be seen a note which reads as follows: "The descendants of David and Jane (Reed) Stockbridge are also 'Mayflower' descendants through Elder William Brewster, the leading figure in the Pilgrim Church." The line of descent is through Margaret Turner, who was the wife of John Stockbridge, who were the parents of David Stockbridge. Margaret was the daughter of Joseph and Bathsheba Hcbart (Leavitt) Turner, Joseph Turner being the son of John Turner, Sr., and Mary (Brewster) Turner. Mary was the daughter of Jonathan and Lucretia (Oldham) Brewster. Jonathan was the son of Elder William Brewster. There are a number of scattered cases of intermarriage of "Mayflower" descendants, note on page 546. Susan Clark Reed, A 789, who married Emory Alden, a direct lineal descendant of John and Priscilla Alden. And doubtless there are a great many others if they were traced out.

The descendants of fifteen at least of the Reeds can claim title to membership in the societies of the Sons of the Revolution and the Sons of American Revolution and similar societies, by virtue of the service of the following ancestors, in the Revolutionary War, viz.:

- T 91, page 70, John Reed.
- T 109, " 80, John Reed.
- A 156, " 89, Capt. William Reed.
- A 178, " 99, Abel Reed.
- A 182, " 100, Rev. John Reed.
- A 205, " 110, Samuel Reed.

The first part of the report deals with the general situation of the country and the progress of the war. It is followed by a detailed account of the operations of the army and the navy. The report concludes with a summary of the results of the campaign and a statement of the resources of the country.

The second part of the report contains a list of the names of the officers and soldiers who were killed in action during the campaign. This list is followed by a list of the names of the officers and soldiers who were wounded. The names of the officers and soldiers who were taken prisoner are also listed.

The third part of the report contains a list of the names of the officers and soldiers who were promoted during the campaign. This list is followed by a list of the names of the officers and soldiers who were discharged. The names of the officers and soldiers who were re-enlisted are also listed.

The fourth part of the report contains a list of the names of the officers and soldiers who were awarded medals and decorations during the campaign. This list is followed by a list of the names of the officers and soldiers who were awarded pensions. The names of the officers and soldiers who were awarded other honors are also listed.

The descendants of the following Reeds can claim title to membership in the Society of the War of 1812, namely:

I have not mentioned those who can claim membership in the above-named societies by descent through their maternal ancestry, except in the case of the "Mayflower" descendants, for the reason that the latter must necessarily have been maternal ancestry, as there were none of the Reeds on the "Mayflower," William Reade having come over some fifteen years later on the "Assurance" of London.

Many inquiries have been made as to the change in the manner of spelling our family name, and as to when the spelling was changed from Reade or Read to Reed. I can only state that when I took up this work, I found the almost universal custom was to spell it Reed, but later I found some few of the connection, principally in the Taunton branch, and among those of families who had removed to Maine and New-Hampshire, spelt it Read. There was, however, no uniform rule even among these, as in many cases where the father would spell it Read, the sons would spell it Reed, and it was so difficult to follow it in the families who preferred Read, that I concluded to adopt the uniform spelling of Reed. As to when the change took place, I should say in the second generation, as it will be seen by the will of William Reed, A 4, on pages 10 to 13, that he spells his children's names in three different ways, viz.: Reade, Read and Reed, and on page 10 it will be noticed that to an agreement, which he entered into, he signed his own name William Reed, and from that time on documents signed by the Reeds are mostly signed Reed, and the town records refer to them in most instances as Reed.

In the history of the Reeds, published in 1861, by J. Whittimore Reed, he gives an interesting account of the "Origin of the name and history of the clans," in which he mentioned seventeen different ways in which the name is spelled, namely: "Reed, Read, Reid, Rede, Red, Rad, Rheade, Rheadus, Wrede, Whrede, Reda, Rada, Radha, Wada, Wrede, Raad, Ried, are all derived from Rhea, which had its origin in Phoenicia."

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry should be clearly documented and verified. The text then moves on to describe the various methods used to collect and analyze data, highlighting the need for consistency and precision in the process. It also touches upon the challenges faced in data management and the strategies employed to overcome them. The final section of the document provides a summary of the findings and offers recommendations for future research and practice.

Very truly yours,

Table

Summary of the results of the experiments

The following table shows the results of the experiments conducted on the effect of temperature on the rate of reaction between hydrogen peroxide and potassium iodide. The rate of reaction was measured by the volume of oxygen gas evolved in a given time.

Temperature (°C)	Volume of oxygen (cm ³)
20	20
30	30
40	40

The results show that the rate of reaction increases with increasing temperature. This is because the molecules have more kinetic energy and are therefore more likely to collide with sufficient energy to overcome the activation energy barrier. The rate of reaction is directly proportional to the temperature.

Graph 1: A line graph showing the relationship between temperature and the rate of reaction. The x-axis represents temperature in degrees Celsius, and the y-axis represents the rate of reaction. The curve shows an exponential increase in the rate of reaction as temperature increases.

Graph 2: A line graph showing the relationship between the rate of reaction and the concentration of hydrogen peroxide. The x-axis represents the concentration of hydrogen peroxide, and the y-axis represents the rate of reaction. The curve shows a linear increase in the rate of reaction as the concentration of hydrogen peroxide increases.

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry should be supported by a valid receipt or invoice. This ensures transparency and allows for easy verification of the data.

In the second section, the author outlines the various methods used to collect and analyze the data. This includes both primary and secondary data collection techniques. The primary data was gathered through direct observation and interviews, while secondary data was obtained from existing reports and databases.

The third section details the statistical analysis performed on the collected data. It describes the use of descriptive statistics to summarize the data and inferential statistics to test hypotheses. The results of these analyses are presented in a clear and concise manner, highlighting the key findings of the study.

Finally, the document concludes with a summary of the findings and their implications. It discusses the limitations of the study and suggests areas for future research. The author expresses confidence in the reliability of the data and the validity of the conclusions drawn.

William Reade was born in 1605, and sailed from Gravesend in the County of Kent, England, in the "Assurance" of London (Isaac Bromwell and George Percy, Masters). There were on board this vessel, at the time of sailing, two hundred and twenty-one persons, the most of whom were very youthful. Of the whole number, but one of them was sixty years of age. The average age was from twenty-three to twenty-five years. The date of the sailing of this expedition cannot be accurately ascertained, but from information procured from ancient records, it may be fairly assumed that the correct date was about the 24th July, 1635. This party landed in Boston and William Reade proceeded to and settled in Weymouth, Massachusetts.

It is supposed he came from Maidstone ^{Somersetshire} near London. On March 9, 1636-7, he purchased from the estate of Zachery Bicknell, his house and farm, which was located on the western side of Middle street, the old house stood on the knoll opposite the junction of Middle and Charles streets. The premises are at this time owned by James Clapp. Some members of the family occupied this farm until 1769, when John Reed who married Mary Bates, purchased the old farm of about forty acres, situated on both sides of Front street, near and adjoining the old Reed Cemetery (so called).

William Reade was among the earlier settlers of Weymouth, it having been made a plantation May 8, 1635. On September 2, 1635, he was made freeman, and was very soon called upon to take part in public affairs. Was representative at the General Court, December 7, 1636, and also September 6, 1638. In the spring of 1635, Rev. Joseph Hull and his company came to Weymouth, having sailed from England on March 20, 1635. Prior to this time, a very undesirable element had located at Weymouth, but upon the arrival of Hull's company, the township or plantation took on a new growth, and a different and more desirable class of people than those who had previously located there, took up their abode in Weymouth.

On July 13, 1635, the ship "Alice" (Richard Orchard, Master) sailed from Gravesend. She had thirty-two passengers on board, among whom was Avis Deacon, then but nineteen years of age. The oldest of this party was but thirty-five years, and the youngest but nine months. The average age of the entire company was but twenty-two years. It is a fact, worthy of note, that in those early days, nearly all of the emigrants who came to this country were very young, and few men or women, of mature age, could endure the hardships and privations of the new world, or cared to leave the place of their birth, to make their homes in a new country, about which so little was known at the time.

There was a Thomas Deacon, nineteen years of age, on board the "Assurance" with William Reade, supposed to be a twin brother of Avis Deacon.

Avis Deacon must have married William Reade soon after her arrival in this country.

Appended is the official record of the services of William Reade in the General Court, and also of his purchase of the house and land mentioned above.

"At a meeting of the Town the 26th of the 9th, month (November) 1651, There were chosen Townsmen. John Rogers, Nicholas Byram, David Hunt, John Burge, Thomas Dyer, William Reade & William Dyer, & are to be invested with power for the carrying on the Towns affairs for the ensuing year."

We have no record of the exact date of death of William Reade. From the foregoing records it will be noticed that William Reade was chosen Townsman on the 26th day of November, 1651. This is the last mention we have of him in public life. That he died sometime between the years 1651 and 1658, is evident from the following abstracts, taken from the above-mentioned record and which relate to his widow, Avis Reade.

On the 6th of April, 1658, the Townsmen,

"Ordered that the Widow Read shall have liberty to take in a garden plott in the swamp before her House, provided she lay up that garden plott to common, formerly granted, Neere Macnith Pratts barne & that she take no more, than the aforesaid plott containes."

The 6th day of the 12th Month (Feb.), 1659.

"At a meeting of the Townsmen (or Selectmen) it was further granted that Widow Avis Read, should have a swamp lott by virtue that her Husband was then an Inhabitant, when the sayd swamp lotts were granted."

"At a general Town Meeting held March 7-1659./60. Voted that Elder Bate, John Bicknell, Richard Porter, & Others, should have lotts in the Pine Swamps, and that Widow Read should have one lott in the same Pine Swamp and that Sergt Whitmarsh should Measure all the lotts."

In the first division of lands in 1663, Widow Reed received Lot No. 13, of 10 acres, beginning at the Braintree line, and Lot. No. 4, of 30 acres, in second division.

William Reed, son of William and Avis (Deacon) Reade.

b. Oct. 15, 1639; d. in 1706.

m. 1675, Esther Thompson, daughter of John Thompson, who came over in Wesson's company when six years of age, and Mary Cook, daughter of Francis Cook, who was of the Mayflower company. She died in 1706.

William was constable in Weymouth in 1675, which was in those times the principal office of the town. He was selectman in 1681, and an extensive dealer in land. His will, dated Oct. 26, 1705, a copy of which is hereto appended, was proved Sept. 12, 1706, and may be found in the probate office (lib. 16, fol. 73), he and his wife dying between the time of making and the time it was probated. He lived on Pleasant street on the south-westerly side, a part of the old house still standing at this date (1888) having been remodeled and occupied by Palmer Loud. The old dam which he built across the river is near the house, and was probably built between 1680 and 1690. He owned all the land both sides of the street from Hingham line to Ragged Plain (so called) and from the river to a point westerly of the house owned by William

COMMISSIONERS OF THE LAND OFFICE, IN ANSWER TO A RESOLUTION
PASSED BY THE SENATE,

Dyer and later built a double house on the site that had been occupied by William Dyer's house, also one between that and his residence, a portion of the old house had the diamond glass as late as 1850.

It may be interesting to some of their descendants to know the parentage of Esther. It appears by a genealogy published by Ignatius Thompson in 1841, that Lieut. John Thompson, father of Esther, was born in Wales, and was six years old when he landed in Wesson's company in May, 1622, and when he came of proper age, Dec. 6, 1645, married Mary Cook, daughter of Francis Cook, who was one of the Mayflower's company (she was born in Plymouth in 1626; died March 21, 1715). He settled and built a log house thirteen miles west of Plymouth, on the confines of what was then called Plymouth, now Halifax and Middleborough. He lived there until his house was burned by the Indians. While living there either he or his wife would walk to meeting every Sunday. The only place where they had an elder to speak to them was Plymouth, a distance of more than thirteen miles. "We have," says Thompson, "orally received information that during one year of his residence there, his wife on two of the Sabbaths in June, after breakfast took a child six months old in her arms and walked to Plymouth to attend meeting, and returned on the same day." We have in this a picture of real life as it existed in those times, as well as a striking illustration of the indomitable energy and perseverance of the Puritan ancestors. The descendants of William Reed and Esther may thus distinctly trace their ancestry through her to the Pilgrim company of the Mayflower who landed on Plymouth Rock. John Thompson died June 16, 1696. He and his wife are buried at Middleborough. After the death of her husband the widow removed from Weymouth to Abington. He was a private in Lieut. Edward Oak's company, April 26, 1676. (See Soldiers of King Philip's War, by W. S. Bodge, p. 43.)

The site of his house was pointed out to the compiler on a visit to Weymouth July, 1900. Another house had been built on the spot where the old house stood, some of the timbers from the old, were found to be good and sound, and were worked into the new house, they were of oak, and apparently as sound as the day they were put in originally. The land was purchased of John Raue, whose house was burned by the Indians, at the time of King Philip's War (about 1675).

A Bridgewater newspaper of April 25, 1900, notes the sale of the John Thompson farm on Thompson street, Halifax, to John Ljinberg the past week which is remarkable from the fact that the farm now passes out of the Thompson family for the first time since the settlement of Halifax. The site of the first house built in the town is on this farm. And it is a matter of record that with this sturdy family the thirteen miles walk to Plymouth church was the regular order of things Sundays.

The following abstracts, taken from the town records of Weymouth, Massachusetts, refer to William Reed:

"In 1662, William Reed was fined twenty shillings for cutting thatch on the Town flatts."

"At a General Town Meeting 2d of March 1663/4 Voted on Motion of William Reed, that the said William Reed shall have forty Pole of Land, so that he could straighten his Wall & c Next to Reeds Marsh (so called)."

"March 1669/70 William Reed was appointed fence viewer."

"1676/7 William Reed appointed fence viewer."

"At a General Town Meeting 28th of Nov. 1681, William Reed was chosen one of the Selectmen."

"At a Meeting of the Selectmen, the 4th of April, 1682, they appointed to run the perambulation lines on both sides of the Town of Weymouth Corpⁿ French & William Reed for Hingham line and Lt. White and Corpⁿ Kingman for Braintree line."

"William Reed, was chosen Selectman at a General Town Meeting of the inhabitants of Weymouth, Nov. 27 1686. He was again chosen Selectman in 1686/7."

The following is a statement by Quincey L. Reed, of South Weymouth, Massachusetts, as to who "Sarah," the wife of Thomas Reed, was:

"In the Genealogical History of the Porter family, by the Hon. J. W. Porter, of Bangor, Maine, published 1878, on page fourteen, a very imperfect account is given of John Bicknell, and his first wife Mary, and their children. Of course it is all that can be found on the records, but does not tell who this Mary was, nor whether the three children given, were all of that branch; neither does it give dates of birth of all of them. Then on page fifteen, it reads, that James Richards (2d), son of William Richards (1st), married Ruth Bicknell, oldest child of John and Mary (Porter) Bicknell. John Bicknell's first wife was Mary Shaw, William Richards' wife was Grace Shaw, both daughters of Abraham Shaw. The children of these two families were cousins, but James Richards was in no way related to the children of John and Mary (Porter) Bicknell, and married their oldest daughter Ruth. This James Richards was a business man at that period, before 1700, and his books are in existence at this time. In his books he speaks, in 1693, of 'Brother John Dyer of Boston'—1694, 'Brother John Richards' and 'Cousin Thomas Porter'—1695, 'Brother

Joseph Richards'—1696, 'Sister Hannah Bicknell'—1698, 'Uncle Shaw'—1701, 'Uncle Vinson'—1702, 'Brother Thomas Reed'—1705, 'Sister Reede'—1706, 'Brother Reed'—1707, 'Enoch Lovell on his father Reeds account'—1709, 'Brother Maurice Trufant.' In addition to all this, I have many more of the different citizens of that period, referred to in this same manner, and in every instance, where they are known, they bear the same relationship as is expressed in his language. It was customary to some extent, at that period, upwards of two centuries ago, to refer to the relationship of the parties, in making entries in their account books. The first reference is 'Brother John Dyer of Boston.' Dea. Thomas Dyer, in his will 1676, gives his house in Boston to his son John, who married Mary Bicknell, probably oldest child of John and Mary (Shaw) Bicknell. The next is 'Brother John Richards'—he was an older brother of James; then 'Cousin Thomas Porter,' he was a son of Thomas Porter, brother of Mary (Porter) Bicknell, and cousin to Ruth Bicknell, wife of James Richards; then 'Brother Joseph Richards,' another older brother to James; then 'Sister Hannah Bicknell,' she was sister to Ruth Bicknell, the wife of James Richards; the next is 'Uncle Shaw,' this was John Shaw, who married Alice Philips, brother to Grace, the mother of James Richards. The next is 'Uncle Vinson,' who was he? Who could he have been and uncle to James Richards and his wife? I can find no one but Thomas Vinson, who married Martha Shaw, sister to Grace. The name of Martha has been in the Vinson family to the present time. Then comes 'Brother Thomas Reed,' and 'Sister Reed.' How were they brother and sister to James Richards and his wife? According to the ages of John Dyer and Thomas Reed, the wife Sarah, of Thomas Reed, was probably the second child of John and Mary (Shaw) Bicknell. John Bicknell was thirty-four years of age when his first wife, Mary Shaw, died in 1658, and was probably married sometime between 1645 and 1650. He had a son John, born 1654, a daughter Naomi, born 1657,

The first part of the book is devoted to a general history of the world, from the beginning of time to the present day. The author discusses the various stages of human civilization, from the earliest times to the modern era. He examines the political, social, and economic conditions of different periods, and the influence of these factors on the progress of the world. The second part of the book is a detailed account of the history of the British Empire, from its rise to its decline. The author describes the expansion of the empire, the various territories it encompassed, and the impact of its rule on the world. He also discusses the internal affairs of the empire, and the role of the British people in its development. The third part of the book is a history of the United States, from its founding to the present. The author discusses the political and social changes that have shaped the nation, and the role of the American people in its history. He also examines the United States' role in the world, and its impact on the global community. The fourth part of the book is a history of the world from 1875 to 1900, a period of rapid change and progress. The author discusses the industrial revolution, the rise of the modern nation-state, and the emergence of the world as a global community. He also examines the various conflicts and challenges of this period, and the role of the United States in the world. The fifth part of the book is a history of the world from 1900 to the present, a period of unprecedented change and progress. The author discusses the two world wars, the Cold War, and the rise of the modern world. He also examines the various challenges and opportunities of this period, and the role of the United States in the world. The book is a comprehensive and detailed account of the history of the world, and a valuable resource for anyone interested in the subject.

a daughter Mary, date of birth unknown, but probably the oldest child bearing her mother's name, who married John Dyer, and between the birth of his daughter Mary and his son John, his daughter Sarah was probably born, who married Thomas Reed. (John Dyer was born 1643.) Thomas Reed was born 1645. Then comes 'Brother Maurice Trufant'; he married Mary Bicknell, own sister to Ruth, the wife of James Richards. Then compare the names of the daughters of the two families, those of John Bicknell were Mary, Sarah, Ruth, Hannah, Elizabeth, Joanna, Experience; those of Thomas Reed were Mary, Sarah, Ruth, Hannah, Elizabeth. These are not given according to their ages, but the names are all there. To a person of the present generation this may appear of little account, but to one acquainted with the customs of that period, two and one-half centuries ago, it has far more significance than appears on the face of it. It is now nearly fifty years since I first began investigations to ascertain who this Sarah was who married Thomas Reed, my own ancestor, about 1670. I have exhausted all the records of Weymouth, and other records, but could never find any indication who she could be, and had given it up as an impossibility, until these records of James Richards were found. In the land grants of Weymouth, 1663, every family was represented. After following through all of these families, and disposing of all the Sarahs but one, 'Sarah Rogers,' it would be supposed she must be the person, but I have never been able to find the first point to sustain that, with the exception that her name was Sarah, while there are circumstances, facts and records, much that I do not write, in connection with Thomas Reed, and the Bicknell family, the Vinsons and the Shaws, that are unaccountable, only for this solution, which verify these records of James Richards, beyond a doubt."

Thomas Reed was chosen fence viewer, March 22, 1668-9, March 1673-4, March 1675-6, Feb. 23, 1679, in 1680, 6 March, 1698/9 and 7 March, 1708-9; constable, November 27, 1676; way warden, 1681-2 and 1690.

“At a Generall Town Meeting the 2d day of March 1690/1 Capt. On the first Monday in March, 1692-3, Thomas Reed (Sergt.) was again chosen selectman, at a general town meeting.

“At a Generall Town Meeting Legally Convened the 4th of March 1694/5 There was chosen for Surveyors for the year ensueing Lt. Nash, John Pratt senr, Thomas Randal, Nathl Ford and Joseph Green, of Highways, There was Chosen tithingmen, John Rogers, John Hunt, James Humphrey, Nicholas Shaw, Sergt Reed, John Shaw Jr, and Peregrine White.”

He was also, on November 27, 1682, at a general town meeting appointed one of a committee “for the repaying of the old or building of a new Meeting house . . .” [See abstract under William Reed (4).]

At a meeting of the freeholders of the town of Weymouth held on the 24th day of April, 1693, the “waye over the great playne” was determined, and a committee, to whom any one who might “be agrived they May Com” for satisfaction, was appointed. Thomas Reed was a member of this committee. [See William Reed (4).]

The first of these is the fact that the majority of the cases of this disease are reported from the United States and Europe. It is interesting to note that the disease is not reported from any of the tropical or subtropical regions of the world. This fact is of great importance in determining the origin of the disease. It is also interesting to note that the disease is not reported from any of the islands of the Pacific Ocean. This fact is also of great importance in determining the origin of the disease.

He was a house carpenter, and appears to have been a man of considerable property, and an extensive dealer in land.

“At a Meeting of the Selectmen the 6th day of September 1680 Whereas there is information given against John Reed, John Vinson, & James Reed, for Cutting timber upon the Towns Commons contrary to the Towns order the Selectmen on the hearing of the Case & the evidence produced do order that the said John Reed John Vinson, & James Reed do forthwith pay each of them twenty Shillings the one half to the informer & the other half to Joseph Dyer Constable for the use of the Towne, and in case of refusall to be levied by a Warrant from the Selectmen to the Constable.”

We learn from tradition this action, on the part of the selectmen, so offended John Reed and James Reed, that they determined to change their residence, and subsequent records show that they immediately removed from Weymouth to Taunton (South Purchase) about 1680, and John remained there until he was set off in the new town of Dighton, May 30, 1712, and died there. James afterwards removed with his family, about 1705, to Middleborough. In 1682 they were both enrolled on the military roll of Taunton.

The records describe about a dozen pieces of land bought

The first part of the work is devoted to a general history of the world, from the beginning of time to the present day. The author discusses the various ages of the world, the rise and fall of empires, and the progress of civilization. He also touches upon the different religions and philosophies that have shaped human thought and action.

In the second part, the author provides a detailed account of the history of the British Empire, from its early beginnings in the sixteenth century to its expansion across the globe. He examines the political, economic, and social factors that have influenced the growth and development of the empire, as well as the challenges it has faced over time.

The third part of the work focuses on the history of the United States, from its founding as a new nation to its emergence as a global superpower. The author explores the political and social movements that have shaped the American identity, as well as the role of the United States in the world.

Finally, the author concludes with a reflection on the future of the world, discussing the challenges and opportunities that lie ahead. He offers his own perspective on the path forward for humanity, emphasizing the importance of peace, justice, and progress.

The work is a comprehensive and insightful study of world history, providing a valuable resource for anyone interested in the human story.

by him in Taunton, and several pieces sold by him. Annexed is appended a deed of his home place purchased of John Woodward in 1680.

He was quite a business man in Taunton, but removed from there to Dighton. He and his wife were buried in Dighton, on Burying Hill, between upper and lower Four Corners. Their grave-stones are in good condition, and their inscriptions read thus: "Here lieth ye body of Battieah, wife of John Read: died October ye 20, 1730, aged 77 years." "Here lieth ye body of John Reed, aged 72 years: and died January ye 13th 1720-1."

His estate was valued at a hundred and sixty-two pounds at his decease. He was the ancestor of the Taunton Reeds. He, with his brother James, were privates in Capt. Johnson's company, later Capt. John Jacob's, in the "King Philip's War" (see Bodge's, pages 113 and 114). About 1675, before he removed to Taunton, he leased the farm belonging to Wm. Tyngge, of Braintree, later the farm of Josiah Quincy.

The first part of the proof is to show that the function f is continuous at a . Let $\epsilon > 0$ be given. We must find $\delta > 0$ such that if $|x - a| < \delta$ then $|f(x) - f(a)| < \epsilon$.

Since f is bounded on $[a - 1, a + 1]$, there is a number $M > 0$ such that $|f(x)| \leq M$ for all x in $[a - 1, a + 1]$. Let $\delta = \min\{1, \epsilon/(2M)\}$. If $|x - a| < \delta$, then $|x - a| < 1$ and $|f(x) - f(a)| \leq |f(x)| + |f(a)| \leq M + M = 2M < \epsilon$.

Thus f is continuous at a . The second part of the proof is to show that f is uniformly continuous on $[a, b]$. Let $\epsilon > 0$ be given. We must find $\delta > 0$ such that if $|x - y| < \delta$ then $|f(x) - f(y)| < \epsilon$ for all x, y in $[a, b]$. Let $\delta = \min\{\delta_1, \delta_2\}$, where δ_1 is the δ from the first part of the proof and $\delta_2 = b - a$. If $|x - y| < \delta$, then $|x - y| < \delta_1$ and $|x - y| < \delta_2$. Thus $|f(x) - f(y)| < \epsilon$.

THEOREM 10.10
 Let f be a function defined on a closed interval $[a, b]$. If f is continuous on $[a, b]$, then f is uniformly continuous on $[a, b]$.

PROOF. Let $\epsilon > 0$ be given. For each x in $[a, b]$, there is a $\delta_x > 0$ such that if $|y - x| < \delta_x$ then $|f(y) - f(x)| < \epsilon/2$. The set $\{x \in [a, b] : |y - x| < \delta_x\}$ is an open cover of $[a, b]$. By compactness, there is a finite subcover. Let $\delta = \min\{\delta_{x_1}, \delta_{x_2}, \dots, \delta_{x_n}\}$. If $|x - y| < \delta$, then $|x - y| < \delta_{x_i}$ for some i , and $|f(x) - f(y)| < \epsilon/2$.

Thus f is uniformly continuous on $[a, b]$. □

THEOREM 10.11
 Let f be a function defined on a closed interval $[a, b]$. If f is uniformly continuous on $[a, b]$, then f is continuous on $[a, b]$.

PROOF. Let $a \in [a, b]$ and let $\epsilon > 0$ be given. Since f is uniformly continuous on $[a, b]$, there is a $\delta > 0$ such that if $|x - y| < \delta$ then $|f(x) - f(y)| < \epsilon$. Let $x = a$ and $y = a + \delta/2$. Then $|x - y| < \delta$ and $|f(x) - f(y)| < \epsilon$.

1. The first part of the book is devoted to a general survey of the history of the subject, and to a discussion of the various theories which have been advanced to explain the origin of the human mind. The author shows that the most plausible theory is that which regards the human mind as a product of the action of natural laws upon a material basis.

2. The second part of the book is devoted to a detailed examination of the various theories which have been advanced to explain the origin of the human mind. The author shows that the most plausible theory is that which regards the human mind as a product of the action of natural laws upon a material basis.

lots, each owner agreeing to maintain his share of fence around the Meadow."

Hobart further states that "William lived where Ephraim S. Jenkies lives."

Rev. Mr. Dodge in his journal, 3rd of June, 1753, says:

"Attended the funeral of the Aged Capt. Reed, the largest I have ever seen in town. Ten at least of his descendants in the Male line, have been liberally educated. Of these two have been Members of Congress, Viz, his grandson, the late Rev. Dr. John Reed, of West Bridgewater and his Son, the Hon. John Reed of Yarmouth, now a Member. After the Expiration of his present term, he will have been in Congress twenty-two years—Eighteen in succession."

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry should be supported by a valid receipt or invoice. The text also mentions the need for regular audits to ensure the integrity of the financial data. Furthermore, it highlights the role of the accounting department in providing timely and accurate information to management for decision-making purposes. The document concludes by stating that adherence to these principles is essential for the long-term success and stability of the organization.

The second part of the document provides a detailed overview of the company's financial performance over the past year. It includes a summary of the income statement, balance sheet, and cash flow statement. The text notes that the company has achieved a steady increase in revenue, primarily due to the expansion of its product line and the entry into new markets. Despite the challenges posed by the current economic environment, the company has managed to maintain a strong position and is well-positioned for future growth. The document also mentions the company's commitment to social responsibility and its efforts to reduce its carbon footprint.

The final part of the document outlines the company's strategic vision for the next five years. It identifies key areas of focus, including research and development, market expansion, and talent acquisition. The text states that the company aims to become a global leader in its industry by leveraging its core competencies and innovative capabilities. It also mentions the company's commitment to sustainable growth and its goal of achieving a positive impact on society. The document concludes with a statement of confidence in the company's future and a call to action for all employees to work together towards the common goal of success.

William and Sarah May (Langlee) Hersey. Her father was a soldier in Capt. Johnson's company Dec. 1675, was a representative in the Gen. Court 1698 and 1699, after 1704 he removed with his family to Abington. [See His. of Hingham.]

m. 2nd. Dec. 21, 1733, Hannah Noyes (widow).

He settled in Abington, the part now called South Abington, in 1708. He appears to have been a man of influence, from the fact that he was elected to the office of town clerk of Abington for nineteen years. He was one of the selectmen for eight years. His place is where John W. Jenkins afterward lived, formerly Lieut. Ephraim Whitmarsh's place.

Aaron Hobart, in his sketch of Abington, a book compiled by him in 1839, says:

"In 1665, Two Hundred acres of land were granted to the four younger Sons of Lieut James Torrey (of Scituate) lying about Weymouth near unto the line of the Massachusetts, to be at the disposal of Capt. William Torrey, for the good of said children, bounded &c.,

Sarah, the improvement of one half of the Housing and Barn, and of that part of my real estate which I do not give unto my son John, the one moiety of my outdoor movables and the improvement of all my indoor movables, together with such grain & wood yearly as she shall want for her own consumption, during her widowhood, except my gun and sword.

“Item. I do give unto my son John, to him and his heirs and assigns forever, all my housings and lands, my barn, my Homestead land, Upland and Meadow ground, fresh, English, and salt meadow and flats lying and being in Weymouth, the one Moiety at my decease, the other moiety at the marriage or decease of my wife; except that part of my fresh meadow I bought of Thomas Blanchard, and except my house and Barn and land I bought lately of John Burrell; I do give unto my son John all my outdoor movables the one moiety at my decease, the other moiety at the expiration of his mothers widowhood. I do give unto my son John my gun, my sword, and military accoutrements, my wearing apparall, my Monies, Bonds, Notes of hand, Book debts, except as herein excepted. I do give unto my daughter Sarah, to her and her heirs and assigns forever, about seven or eight acres of land more or less being in Abington, and being part of that estate which descended to me from my brother Samuel deceased. I do also give her a bond of one hundred pounds, be it more or less which I have against her husband provided, and is my will that if my son-in-law Adam Cushing at any time or times after my decease, by himself, or by any, by or under him shall make any demands upon my estate, for any sum or sums of money, as due to him from me on ye account of any Bills, Bonds, Notes of hand, Book debts, or by any pretence whatsoever, then I do give my daughter Sarah but 5 shillings, and what I have given her as above, I give to my son John. I do give my daughter Ruth, to her and her heirs and assigns forever, my home and land I lately bought of John Burrell, it being late the Estate of Elisha Lincoln, together with my fresh meadow I bought of John Blanchard, called Puddle Meadow; and also I do give unto my daughter Sarah five pounds, six shillings, and eight pence, and to my daughter Ruth five pounds, six shillings, and eight pence to be paid within one year after my decease. I give unto my son John and to my daughter Ruth all my indoor movables not yet disposed of at the expiration of my wife or her widowhood. I order my son John to pay my legacies, whom I hereby appoint sole executor of this my last will and Testament, and all the residue of my estate not yet disposed of I do give unto him, May 31st, 1757.

His wife was born in Weymouth March 3, 1683, and died in Mendon; they lived in West Abington just over the Weymouth line, on the site owned formerly by Isaac Jackson, now by his son. His (Samuel Reed's) farm consisted of about 600 acres. It will be seen by his schedule annexed that he left a considerable estate, leaving no direct heirs. His brother John was executor and inherited the principal part of his estate. He was selectman for two years in Abington.

Nash; granddaughter of James Nash, of Weymouth (see History of Abington).

He is mentioned in Hobart's History of Abington, as Capt. Obadiah Reed, p. 415. He was selectman for eight years.

At a church meeting held in Abington in 1749, Capt. Obadiah Reed was "chose" clerk.

The first meeting house in Abington was a small Quaker-like building, unpainted, without steeple, tower, bell, pews or stoves. At the date of the organization of the society, they had eight male members. They were Samuel Brown, William Hersey, Andrew Ford, William Tirrell, Ebenezer Whitmarsh, Joseph Josselyn, William Reed (probably 12), and Joseph Lincoln. Benches were used in the meeting house to take the place of pews.

Jan. 14, 1751, the town voted to build a new meeting house with a steeple 70 ft. long, 50 ft. wide and 26-ft. posts, and appointed Lieut. Ephraim Spooner, Christopher Dyer, Jacob Porter, Capt. Obadiah Reed, Joseph Richards and Dea. Joshua Shaw, as building committee.

ORDER OF COURT DIVIDING THE ESTATE OF CAPT. OBADIAH REED

"Pursuant to a warrant from the Hon. John Cushing, Esqr. Judge of the Probate of Wills &c for the County of Plymouth in the Province of the Massachusetts Bay in New England, directed to us the subscribers for the appraisement & division of the estate of Capt. Obadiah Reed late of Abington deceased, which we have done in manner following, Viz:—

"First:—To Obadiah Reed the eldest son of sd. deceased the first share which is the dwelling house and land on the south easterly side of the road the barn and two acres and a half of land on the west side of the road beginning at the corner of Jacob Porter's land running south eighteen & an half, east twenty-one rod and four feet to a stake & stones from thence west eleven degrees, south thirty six rod

MEMORANDUM

1. The purpose of this memorandum is to provide information regarding the proposed changes to the existing contract between the Government and the contractor.

2. The proposed changes are necessary in order to reflect the current market conditions and to ensure that the contractor is able to perform the work in a timely and efficient manner.

3. The proposed changes include an increase in the unit price for materials, a decrease in the unit price for labor, and a change in the payment schedule.

4. The proposed changes are based on the current market conditions and are necessary in order to ensure that the contractor is able to perform the work in a timely and efficient manner.

5. The proposed changes are subject to the approval of the Government and the contractor.

The first part of the book is devoted to a general history of the world, from the beginning of time to the present day. The author discusses the various civilizations that have flourished on the earth, and the progress of human knowledge and art. He also touches upon the different religions and philosophies that have shaped the human mind.

In the second part, the author turns to a more detailed account of the history of the British Empire. He traces its growth from a small island in the North Sea to a vast global power that ruled over a quarter of the world's population. He examines the political, military, and economic factors that led to its rise and fall.

The third part of the book is a history of the United States of America. It begins with the early settlement of the continent by European and Native American peoples, and continues through the struggle for independence, the formation of the Constitution, and the expansion of the nation across the continent.

The final part of the book is a history of the world from 1875 to the present. It covers the industrial revolution, the rise of the nation-states, the two world wars, and the emergence of the United States and the Soviet Union as superpowers. It also discusses the challenges of the modern world, such as nuclear war, environmental degradation, and global inequality.

Brook Mill, during the whole term of time it is to stand by a former agreement and one half of the pew in the Meeting House.

“Seventhly:—The seventh share being one seventh part, we assign to Silence, containing near fourteen acres, beginning at a stake and stones by the road at the northwest corner of the sixth, thence running west eighteen degrees, south one hundred and twenty eight rod, thence running north eighteen rod, to the south west corner of the second share, then east eighteen degrees, north by said share to the way by a stake and stones, then by the way to the bounds first mentioned. Also five rod on the southerly side of a cedar swamp in Streams Swamp, and a quarter part of Tirrell’s Mill.

He was one of the first settlers of Cummington. He was a captain.

According to tradition, Mr. Reed, while on a visit to Abington, at the time of the death of his first wife, had a presentiment that she was dead, an apparition appearing at his bedside in the night. He told his friends that his wife was dead, and as soon as it could be ascertained, his apprehension proved true.

While riding through a wood a tree fell upon and killed her. His daughter-in-law, Thankful Whitmarsh, was killed in the same accident.

“First:—I also give and bequeath to my beloved wife, Sarah Reed one room, Viz. that which lies on the southwest corner of my dwelling house or in other words the Southwest room below in the front of said house, a privilege of performing that business that is proper to be done in the kitchen, also a privilege of using a buttery in said kitchen to be improved by her in person not allowing her to improve it by tenanting or leasing of it to any other person whatever, so long as she shall continue my widow, and no longer shall she have the improvement or use of the above mentioned room privilege in the kitchen and buttery. Further I order my executor hereafter named to pay out to my beloved wife Sarah Reed and do by her agreeable to a certain written contract which I made with her before marriage, in every respect it is my will that it be fulfilled by him in every respect that he fail not under any pretense whatever without her consent thereto.

“I also give and bequeath to my third son Enoch Reed who is now absent from me upon his return if ever it should be, two Hundred pounds lawful money.

“I also give and bequeath to my youngest daughter Ruth Gannett, the sum of seventy three pounds, six shillings, and eight pence lawful money.

“I also give and bequeath to my eldest daughter Rachel Porter Sixty pounds lawful money.

“I also give and bequeath to my youngest son, Noah Reed, my home farm, consisting of one hundred acres of land, the house and barn upon said land, together with my saw mill, excepting one half of said saw mill which I give and bequeath to my fourth son Seth Reed, I also except from the enjoyment of my youngest son so much of the house as I have given to my wife in this my will above during the time she continues my widow, after which he is to be in full possession of my said house.

“I also give and bequeath to my fourth son Seth Reed, and to my youngest son Noah Reed, my waggon and the furniture belonging to the same, Viz., chains, irons, plows, and their furniture, and I order that these be equally divided between these my two sons.

“Further I will and order that my wearing apparel the whole of it be equally divided amongst my several sons, my sons in law, excepted or excluded from the same.

“Further I will and order that the remains from my real and personal estate be divided amongst my sons and daughters, an equal share to each son, excepting my youngest son Noah Reed, I exclude from a share in this having above given him what I suppose is proper and sufficient. My daughters I order to draw but half shares or but half so much as my sons, or in other words I will to them so much each as I do to each individual son of the said remainder of my real and personal estate.

“And I do appoint my youngest son Noah Reed, sole executor to this my last will and testament, hereby revoking all former wills testaments by me made.

WILL

"In the name of God, Amen—the twenty sixth day of April A. Domini 1785 I Solomon Reed of Middleborough, in the County of Plymouth, clerk, being of sound and disposing mind and memory, & calling to mind that it is appointed for all men once to die, do proceed to make & ordain this my last will & testament. In the first place I recommend my soul into the hands of God who gave it, hoping through the merits, mediation & intercession of Jesus Christ to obtain a full and free pardon of all my sins & inherit eternal life and my body I commit to the earth, to be decently buried at the discretion of my executor hereafter named, believing that at the resurrection I shall receive the same again by the power of God Almighty, and as touching my worldly interest, I give and dispose of it in the following manner Viz:—

“In the first place my will is that all my real estate should be sold as soon as there may be a convenient time after my decease, and that all my debts should be paid out of the same, & after the sum of all my debts are deducted, I give and bequeath a fifth part of what remains to my well beloved wife Sarah Reed, to be paid her in two years after my decease—I also give her all the notes that are given in her name, with all the household furniture she brought with her & what is wasted is to be made good.

“Item: I give and bequeath to my four sons, Viz:—John, Solomon, Samuel and Timothy Reed, the whole of my estate, both real and personal besides what is before disposed of, excepting the household provisions, which are to be spent for the use of the family.

“Finally:—I constitute & appoint my son Timothy, to be my sole executor of this my last will & testament. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal the day and year aforesaid.

Rev. Solomon Reed graduated at Harvard College in 1739. There is no record informing us under whose instruction he pursued his studies for the ministry; though it was probably with the Rev. Mr. Brown, the minister of his native town. That he entered the profession from a conviction of duty, and with an earnest purpose to promote the religious well-being of his fellowmen, is very manifest from such of his manuscript writings as have come down to us, as well as from the direct tradition of those who knew him intimately.

The first part of the report is devoted to a general various branches of industry and commerce which are carried on in the country. The

During the first few years of Mr. Reed's ministry, and afterwards as we have reason to suppose, he was very earnest and devoted in his labors for the spiritual good of others, both by religious conversation and preaching, as well in neighborhoods on week-days as in the regular ministrations on Sunday.

Among the precious antiquarian treasures in the archives of the Pilgrim Society of Plymouth are a few manuscript sermons of Mr. Reed, written in a fine clear hand in an easy flow of style of composition and indicating decided ability. With those documents there is also an original manuscript journal kept by him from Oct. 3, 1743, to Jan. 9, 1745. This journal indicates often a great tenderness of religious feeling; and often too a sadly morbid sensitiveness of conscience, evidently arising from the mingled influence of his uncheerful religious views, and a diseased physical constitution, of which he often speaks.

It was during the period when Mr. Whitefield was preaching in New England that Mr. Reed was keeping his journal, and was so self-scrutinizing as to his spiritual state. The following passages from the journal, relating to Mr. Whitefield, cannot fail to be read with interest:

"Abington, Sunday, Dec. 23, 1744. Heard Mr. Brown in the afternoon. Monday I travelled to Duxbury, and heard Mr. Whitefield preach in the evening; and then I travelled with him, and heard him every day, all the week, Sunday Dec. 30, preached at Titicut and we had some token of the divine presence. I heard Mr. Whitefield again on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, at Bridgewater, Easton and Taunton, N. B. Mr. Whitefield is exceedingly filled with the spirit of Jesus, and not afraid of Christ his cause or children; and a wonderful power attended his administrations. The assemblies seem much quickened, melted down; and sometimes many were overpowered with the sense of divine things and crying out. Sometimes when I have been with Mr. Whitefield, I have felt guilty, low and dull; sometimes I have been sweetly revived and refreshed."

In 1746 Mr. Reed was ordained as minister of the second Congregational Church in Framingham; he remained there until 1756, when he dissolved his connection with that church, and was installed as minister of Titicut, a parish embracing the northwestern border of Middleborough and the southwest part of Bridgewater.

His health, never firm, sensibly declined in 1784, and he died in the spring of 1785, at a little past the age of sixty-five.

Notwithstanding the limited support given to clergymen in those days, Mr. Reed gave to each of his four sons a collegiate education.

We have been permitted to copy the following interesting notice of his funeral. It is from a coarse half-sheet of manuscript, broken and yellow with age, but clearly written in a homely hand. It had been carefully kept, probably from near that time to the present, in an old bible of his cousin William, son of Jacob, which recently came into the hands of a grandson:

“Died at his house in Titicut Parish of a lingering illness, on the seventh inst. (month not named) the Rev. Soloinon Reed, Pastor of a Church in Middleborough; and was interred on the 10th, age sixty-five. The interment was attended by a numerous concourse, in the procession to the meeting house, and a sermon suited to the occasion, from Isa. xxxiii 20, was delivered by the Rev. Mr. Shaw of Bridgewater. The whole was concluded by a pertinent and pathetic prayer by the Rev. Mr. Porter; while an effusion of tears marked the affliction of the church and the people, and testified the respect they bore his memory. The character of Mr. Reed as a disciple of Jesus Christ, and a luminary in the candle stick in which Providence had placed him, was respectable. The advancement of Christ’s kingdom in the hearts of his flock, and among mankind in general, was a subject, in which he was much engaged. He was a workman that needed not to be ashamed; for he rightly divided the work of truth, and gave to every one his portion in due season.”

The first part of the history is devoted to a description of the country and its inhabitants. The author describes the various tribes and their customs, and the different parts of the country. He also mentions the various rivers and lakes, and the different kinds of animals and plants which are found there.

The second part of the history is devoted to a description of the various wars and battles which have taken place in the country. The author describes the different battles and the various strategies which were used by the different tribes. He also mentions the different treaties and alliances which were made between the different tribes.

The third part of the history is devoted to a description of the various customs and traditions of the different tribes. The author describes the different ceremonies and festivals which are celebrated, and the different kinds of music and dancing which are performed. He also mentions the different kinds of food and clothing which are worn by the different tribes.

The fourth part of the history is devoted to a description of the various political and social institutions of the different tribes. The author describes the different kinds of government which are in use, and the different kinds of laws and customs which are followed. He also mentions the different kinds of social organization which are in use, and the different kinds of relationships which exist between the different members of the different tribes.

The fifth part of the history is devoted to a description of the various religious and philosophical beliefs of the different tribes. The author describes the different kinds of gods and goddesses which are worshipped, and the different kinds of religious ceremonies and rituals which are performed. He also mentions the different kinds of philosophical beliefs and theories which are held by the different tribes.

The sixth part of the history is devoted to a description of the various scientific and technological achievements of the different tribes. The author describes the different kinds of inventions and discoveries which have been made, and the different kinds of scientific theories and theories which have been developed. He also mentions the different kinds of technological achievements which have been made, and the different kinds of scientific and technological institutions which have been established.

FROM NASH MANUSCRIPT

"Cyrus Nash 1780-1850

"Peter Reed lived near the line between Abington and N. Bridgewater, where he died. His house stood about 40 rods S. W. of the old Abner Porter place and 1/4 mile S. W. from old Mr. John Fullertons.

"He married Lucy Hugens in Abington. Her father Mr. Hugens was from Ireland and lived in Bridgewater, and was a neighbor of old Dea. E. Whitman and of Mr. Macomber from Ireland. They lived on the old road that passed Snell's meadow so called and upon the south side of it. The wife of Mr. Hugens was from Ireland. At the age of 17 for some reason she left home and shipped for Pennsylvania where an Aunt of hers resided, but for some reason the ship came to Boston and the young girl was sold to pay her passage. Mr. Macomber before mentioned, bought her, and she went to live in his house at Abington. Later she married Mr. Hugens who was considerably older than his wife. It is said that she was a very sprightly girl, brought up at home in fine style. She said she was not obliged to wet her hands only to wash them. At the birth of her first child she said, 'The finest of her small clothes were coarser than the poorest of her sisters at home.' Their children were John, Lucy and Mrs. Hoshiah Porter of Weymouth, also another daughter who married Lot Randall, who had two daughters."

Peter Reed of Abington according to the Massachusetts State Archives served in the French and Indian Wars, the Record is, "Peter Reed (of Bridgewater) Sentinel in Capt. Johnson's Co. in 1754 also Peter Reed of Abington, Private in Capt. Slocomb's Co., Col. Joseph Williams' Regiment in 1758. Also in Dunbar's Co. at Halifax 1759-62."

Peter's brother Ezekiel (2 years older, b. Nov. 14, 1721) who married Hannah Beal, served at the same time and died on the return passage in 1762 of consumption and homesickness, 273 persons embarked on this voyage and when discharged at Boston only 77 were alive. It is supposed that yellow fever broke out on board.

The Nash MS. states that "At the death of Peter (1780) his widow (Lucy) removed to the westward probably to Cummington, and Samuel to the same place, where she died."

The first part of the book is devoted to a general introduction to the subject of the history of the English language. It is divided into three main sections: the first deals with the pre-historic period, the second with the Old English period, and the third with the Middle English period. The author discusses the influence of various languages on the development of English, particularly Latin, French, and Scandinavian. He also touches upon the role of dialects and the process of standardization.

The second part of the book is a detailed study of the Old English period, from the seventh to the eleventh century. It covers the works of the Anglo-Saxon poets, such as Beowulf and Caedmon's Hymn, and the prose of the Anglo-Saxon Chronicle and the Anglo-Saxon Homilies. The author analyzes the linguistic features of Old English, including its inflectional system and its vocabulary.

The third part of the book deals with the Middle English period, from the twelfth to the fifteenth century. It discusses the works of the Middle English poets, such as Geoffrey Chaucer and John Gower, and the prose of the Middle English period. The author examines the linguistic changes that took place during this period, such as the loss of inflections and the development of a more fixed word order.

CHAPTER II

The first part of the book is devoted to a general survey of the history of the world, from the beginning of time to the present day. The author discusses the various stages of human civilization, from the primitive state of nature to the establishment of the first societies. He then proceeds to a detailed account of the rise and fall of the great empires of antiquity, including the Assyrians, Babylonians, Persians, Greeks, and Romans. The second part of the book is a history of the world from the beginning of the Christian era to the present day. It covers the history of the Roman Empire, the Middle Ages, the Renaissance, and the modern world. The author discusses the various political and social changes that have taken place throughout the world, and the progress of human civilization. The book is written in a clear and concise style, and is suitable for both the general reader and the student of history.

His wife Mary Whitmarsh died Dec. 21, 1715. (They had nine children.) Increase Bates was the son of Elder Edward Bates, born in 1606, and who died March 25, 1686, aged 80, who probably came over in the "Griffin" and landed in Boston Sept. 14, 1633. He joined the first church in Boston in Nov. 1638, and was made a freeman March 13, 1638-9.

On May 22, 1839, we find him one of the deputies of the General Court sitting at Boston, evidently from Weymouth. He was again elected a deputy from Weymouth Dec. 19, 1660. He held the important position of elder in the church of Weymouth for more than thirty years, and was mentioned by that title as early as Feb. 3, 1651-2, and he was also chosen to many important positions, as the records of Weymouth show. He was buried in the cemetery at Burying Hill, where may be found his gravestone suitably inscribed.

Mary Bates' maternal grandfather was John Ward who lived to the age of ninety years, son of Henry, son of Samuel Ward who was born in 1593, and was a representative to the General Court in 1637 and 1638 (see His. of Hingham, p. 275).

m. 2nd. Jan. 9, 1771, Mrs. Hannah Andrews.

He was a blacksmith by trade and a man of considerable business. He was a constable in 1767; selectman in 1775. Was a captain in the army and one of the committee of inspection and correspondence in the Revolution; and was a pious man. He was above middle stature, and rather stern in manner. His first wife was the daughter of James Pinneo, a French Huguenot, who escaped from France about the year 1685, at the date Louis revoked the edict of Nantes, and during the persecutions of that pious and devoted band. After having been secreted in dens and caves in France, he finally made his way to America; settled in Lebanon, Conn., and brought up a family of children, one of whom was Dorothy the wife of John Reed. His estate was valued at his decease, realty in silver money at 990 pounds sterling, and personalty 450 pounds sterling. The following poem was delivered by Hodges Reed before the Reed Association or Annual Gathering, at the old homestead, Aug. 24, 1847. The verses are so unique and full of historic interest, that I consider them worthy to be inserted here.

It was a cold December day,
 A hundred years ago,
 The purling brooks had ceased their play,
 The hill, the rock, the meadow lay
 All covered o'er with snow.

The withered leaves, the withered flowers,
 Their last cold sleep had come;
 The snow it was their winding sheet,
 The pelting rain, the rattling sleet,
 Consign them to their home.

(3)

Hark! Joyful sounds are on the air,
 From yonder ruins breaking,
 For John has brought him a fair
 Young bride, and all the neighbors there,
 Are met and merry making.

(4)

Her name was Dorothy—why smile?
 T'is no unworthy name!
 Since many a maid, tradition says,
 Renowned in Puritanic days,
 Was proud to bear the same.

(5)

Perhaps some, less fair, may have thought,
 T'would be a good idea,
 Her name to modernize somewhat,
 To suit politer ears, why not?
 We'll call her Dorothea.

No! let her name unaltered be,
 You cannot make it better;
 John liked it well, "Sweet Dorothy,"
 He rung it on his anvil, he
 Would never change a letter.

(7)

Her father was a Huguenot,
 A Frenchman, full of zeal,
 In self-denying doctrines taught,
 Who oft in caves his Savior sought,
 Secure from Romish steel.

(8)

But Popish eyes that never sleep,
 Found out the heretic
 And Pinneo fled across the deep,
 Trusting in God that he would keep,
 His promise to the meek.

(9)

The Huguenots were men whose faith,
 Soared on sublimest wings;
 Their Standard, what the Bible saith,
 Their March, onward in duty's path,
 In spite of Popes or Kings.

Is there, my kin, upon your crown,
An elevated spot;
That stirs you up, to trample down,
All obstacles that cluster round?
T'is that old Huguenot.

(11)

Within doth some electric spark,
Play volatile as thought;
Up soaring like the morning lark,
Though present prospects may be dark?
T'is that young Huguenot.

(12)

That spirit grim that bids you mope,
When troubles are astir,
Fixing a feeble grasp on hope,
Too listless e'en to seize the rope,
It never came from her.

Yon Horseblock,—she ne'er felt the lack,
Of such dumb helpers near;
For she could spring up in a crack,
From the ground to the highest horse's back,
Quick as the frightened deer.

(14)

And once, ere life had lost its tone,
I've heard my mother say,
Mounted and spurred, and all alone,
She started off for Lebanon,
Upon a summer's day.

(15)

It was a hundred miles or more,
To her loved native place;
In her fond arms a child she bore,
And never a dog to trot before,
Even so tradition says.

(16)

The way was long and dark the woods,
The wolf howl pierced her ear;
But on, with child and traveling goods,
She sped o'er hills and plains and floods,
With a heart that knew no fear.

(17)

Still joyful sounds are on the air,
From yonder ruins breaking;
For John has brought him home a fair
Young bride, and all the neighbors there
Are met and merry making.

(18)

A hazel laughing eye she had,
Her dark curls flowing free;
Fairer I ween than fairest maid,
That sports beneath this Locust shade,
If a thing can be.

(19)

I hear the hammer ringing loud,
Through those cold wintry days;
The shop¹ is gone; but there it stood,
On yonder hillock near the wood,
The cinders mark the place.

The sparks upon the evening air,
Are dancing far and wide;
And well they may, for John is there
With thought intent upon his fair,
Young Huguenotic bride.

Blow, happy smith! The steel thrust swift,
Into the sputtering trough;
Heat the huge bar, the sledge uplift.
With such an argument for thrift,
Thou'lt soon be better off.

¹ The first blacksmith shop stood on the east side of the road between the present shop and the ruins.

CHAPTER I

The first part of the book is devoted to a general introduction of the subject. It discusses the scope and limits of the study, and the methods employed. The author also mentions the sources of information used in the work.

The second part of the book is devoted to a detailed description of the various forms of the subject. It discusses the different varieties and their characteristics, and the conditions under which they occur.

The third part of the book is devoted to a discussion of the causes and effects of the subject. It examines the various factors which influence the development of the subject, and the consequences of its presence.

The fourth part of the book is devoted to a discussion of the treatment of the subject. It examines the various methods which have been employed to deal with the subject, and the results which have been achieved.

The fifth part of the book is devoted to a discussion of the prevention of the subject. It examines the various measures which can be taken to prevent the occurrence of the subject, and the results which have been achieved.

The sixth part of the book is devoted to a discussion of the prognosis of the subject. It examines the various factors which influence the course of the subject, and the results which can be expected.

The seventh part of the book is devoted to a discussion of the general principles which govern the subject. It examines the various laws which apply to the subject, and the results which have been achieved.

And thou, sweet Dorothy, meanwhile,
 Speed on the merry wheel;
 With song and tardy hours beguile,
 Till he return with wonted smile,
 To taste the frugal meal.

(23)

So played the sparks on the wintry sky,
 So formed the smith his shoe;
 So swung his vigorous arm on high,
 While the short months went gaily by,
 For love the bellows blew.

(24)

So whirred the merry wheel within,
 So blithely sung the fair
 Young bride, so swift the knitting pin,
 So welcome pots and kettles din,
 For answering love was there.

(25)

Now come the summer months, ah, where,
 Those fruit trees, hanging low?
 The rosy peach, the luscious pear,
 The seek no further that hung there,
 A hundred years ago.

(26)

A hundred years! what now, of all
 They saw, have seen our days?
 The ground, the river, that old wall,
 The deep blue vault o'er arching all,
 The rest have gone their ways.

(27)

Not so! Who cometh there? T'is he!
 John and his fair young bride;
 Now, underneath that spreading tree,
Look! Look! My kin why don't you see,
 Upon that rock, how lovingly,
 They're seated side by side?

Sweet Dorothy,¹ behold her now;
 That eye; those glossy curls,
 Parted so neatly on her brow,
 Those lips, just like the peach just dropping now,
 Is'nt she a beauty, girls?

(29)

Her smile, like ripples in the sun,
 When gentlest breezes blow,
 Her skin transparent doth not shun,
 To tell you what is going on,
 In the loving heart below.

But still, her cheek is slightly pale,
 And a slight shade in her eye,
 They tell us an unwelcome tale,
 Sickness hath marked that body "frail"
 And one day it must die.

(31)

John marks it too, and on his face,
 The coming shadows fall;
 Fear not,² She shall live many days.
 The mother of a numerous race,
 The mother of us all.

² Dorothy was about twenty years old when she was married. "She was sick a good deal," says my Aunt Dudley, but she lived after this long enough to become the mother of eight children, two of whom are alive this day, viz.: Dorothy, the widow of Paul Dudley, and Hannah, the widow of Stephen Dean.

Hark! Now he speaks! My kin draw near,
 Listen and you shall know,
 That true and loving hearts were here,
 Where strangers might not interfere,
 A hundred years ago.

(33)

Fair Dorothy, how good with thee
 To seek this calm retreat;
 From the heated hearth and anvil free,
 Beneath this overshadowing tree,
 To breathe the zephyrs sweet.

(34)

Come, sing the martyr's song my bride,
 First taught thee by thy sire;
 Sweetly the moments ever glide,
 Charmed by thy music, she replied,
 "To please thee, my desire."

THE MARTYR'S SONG.

(1)

Give me the parting hand,
 And when my spirit's flown;
 Rejoice that I am going up where,
 No martyr fires are known.

I see the fagots piled,
 The martyr stake around;
 O Jesus own me as thy child,
 When there I shall be bound.

(3)

They call me "Huguenot,"
 And hurl envenomed stings;
 The fires are set, Ye Angels wait,
 And take me on thy wings.

She ceased, but still a tear is found,
 To dim the visual ray;
 That iron man is melted down,
 He threw his stalwart arm around,
 And kissed the pearl away.

(36)

The vision's fled, t'was but the lift,
 Of time's o'ershadowing pall;
 Go to thy shop thou man of thrift,
 And thou, sweet Dorothy, not miifed,
 That tear drop did not fall.

(37)

Aye, happy pair, on your ways,
 You've a great work still to do:
 Go train up a numerous race,
 To serve God in the latter days,
 And bless the Lord for you.

Richard Warren, first of the name in America, sailed from Plymouth, England, in the historic "Mayflower," 6th September, 1620. He was not one of the Leyden Company, but joined the Pilgrims from London, and was one of the signers of the compact, framed in the cabin of the "Mayflower," while in Cape Cod harbor. He was one of the third exploring party surprised by the Indians, 18th December, 1620, at the spot since known as "The First Encounter." In the land division of 1623, he received land as one of the "Mayflower" passengers; his was in the north side of town, with Edward Winslow, Myles Standish and others. He was one of the nineteen signers who survived the first winter. His wife Elizabeth followed him in the "Ann" in 1623. They had eight children. Nathaniel, the seventh child, was born at Plymouth. The last land granted him, June 5th, 1662, was in consideration of his being one of the first children born in the Colony. He owned lot 5 in Middleboro. Was Representative to General Court, 1657-58-59-60-63-64-65. He married Sarah Walker. They had twelve children. Richard, the first child of Nathaniel, married Sarah ———. He died at Middleboro, January 23d, 1696-97, where he moved after King Philip's War. They had six children; second son, Samuel, born in Middleboro, 7th March, 1682; died January, 1750; married January 26th, 1703, Eleanor, daughter of Isaac Billington; they had eleven children. Sarah, the tenth child, married William Reed, as above mentioned.

WILL

“In the name of God, Amen. I, Ichabod Reed of Rochester in the County of Plymouth and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, yeoman, being weak of body, yet of sound mind & memory, blessed be God for the same, yet considering the mortality of the body, that it is appointed for all men once to die, do make & ordain this my last will & testament in manner following, Viz:—first I give & bequeath to my well beloved wife, Sarah Reed one third of all my real estate during her natural life, and one third of my personal estate to her forever to dispose of as she shall think proper and also my clock for her use during her natural life, and also my horse to her use and her unmarried daughters as much as they shall need and the other part of the time to use of the farm.

“Item:—I give & bequeath to my son Ichabod Reed one piece of fresh meadow which is called the middle lot, which I had of William, which is about three quarters of an acre and also one other piece of meadow and swamp which is the lowermost piece down stream on Black Brook, so called beginning at a ditch by the upland at the lower end of said meadow, ranging by said ditch to Black Brook, down said Black Brook until it comes to the pond, then by said pond to the upland, and then by upland to the first mentioned bound, and also a lot of cedar swamp which lays on Black Brook and also one half lot of cedar swamp I had of the Mortons, laying in Freetown, and also five hundred dollars in notes, and also one third part of two notes which I hold against Joshua W. Hall if ever collected, to him & his heirs forever.

“Item:—I give & bequeath to my son Josiah Reed all my real estate which I have not other ways disposed of, by his paying out such sums as I shall hereafter order to him & his heirs forever.

“Item:—I give & bequeath to my daughter, Betsey Neal, two hundred and thirty dollars to be paid to her by my executors hereafter named, to her & her heirs forever.

The first part of the book is devoted to a general history of the world, from the beginning of time to the present day. The author discusses the various stages of human civilization, from the earliest times to the modern era. He also touches upon the different religions and philosophies that have shaped human thought and behavior over the centuries.

In the second part of the book, the author provides a detailed account of the history of the British Empire. He traces its expansion from the early days of exploration and trade to its peak in the late 19th and early 20th centuries. The author also examines the impact of the Empire on the world, both in terms of economic and political power, and in terms of cultural exchange and the spread of Western values.

The final part of the book is a critical analysis of the British Empire's role in the world. The author argues that while the Empire did bring about significant progress and development in many parts of the world, it also caused immense suffering and exploitation. He concludes by reflecting on the legacy of the Empire and the challenges that the world faces today.

“Item:—I give & bequeath to my daughter Susanna Reed two hundred and eighty dollars to be paid to her by my executors hereafter named & also a privilege of living in my house as long as she shall remain unmarried, & also one cow to her & heirs forever.

“Item:—I give & bequeath to my daughter Sarah Reed two hundred and sixty dollars, to be paid to her by my executors hereafter named & also a privilege of living in my house so long as she shall remain unmarried, to her & heirs forever.

“Item:—I give & bequeath to my daughter Huldah Shaw two hundred and thirty dollars, to be paid to her by my executors hereafter named, to her & heirs forever.

“Item:—I give & bequeath to my daughter Loues * Reed two hundred and thirty dollars to be paid to her by my executors hereafter named, also a privilege of living in my house so long as she shall remain unmarried, and also one cow to her and her heirs forever.

“Item:—And my will is that my three daughters, unmarried, viz:—Susanna Reed Sarah Reed & Loues * Reed have two thirds of my indoor movables equally divided among them and also my will is that my three daughters if they should remain unmarried after my wife’s decease, that they shall have a privilege of keeping one cow and also a privilege of fire wood if needed and also my will is that my son Josiah Reed shall have my clock after my wife has done with it.

“Item:—I do appoint my son Josiah Reed to be my executor to this my last will & testament, thus hoping that this my last will & testament will be kept and performed according to the true intent in meaning thereof. In witness whereof I the said Ichabod Reed have hereunto set my hand and seal this twenty-fifth day of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighteen.

Ichabod Reed (Seal) ”

“Signed and sealed, published and declared to be the last will and testament by the said Ichabod Reed in presence of us.

John Bennet,
John Bennet, Jr.
Galon Bennet.”

Will proved June 27, 1818.

Immediately after the battle of Bunker Hill, a Company of 58 non-commissioned officers and privates enlisted for eight months and served at Roxbury. The officers were Capt., William Reed; Lieut., Samuel Brown; Ensign, David Cobb.

Capt. William Reed represented the town of Abington at the General Court in 1777.

He was a Revolutionary soldier, and lies buried in the old family burying ground of William Reed who married Silence Nash, the father of James Reed, who married Ruth Porter, who was the father of Marcus who married Mehetable Jenkins.

Jan. 11th, 1773, a Committee of Safety and correspondence was chosen, consisting of Mr. David Jenkins, Capt. Daniel Noyes, Lieut. Nathaniel Pratt, Dr. David Jones, Capt. Edward Cobb, Capt. William Reed, Jr., and Mr. Thomas Wilks.

The family burying ground is still held by representatives of the family, and the tombstone of this William is still standing in the old burying ground and bears this inscription:

"In memory of Capt. William Reed, who died of ye Small Pox March ye 29th 1778, in the 43rd year of his age Not long after his return from the Continental Service."

My Country Strong for you I've stood.
have fought & ventured my blood.
But now I'm seized by Deaths Arrest.
Farewell my friends may you be Blest."

The first part of the book is devoted to a general history of the world, from the beginning of time to the present day. The author discusses the various stages of human civilization, from the earliest times to the modern era. He covers the development of agriculture, the rise of empires, and the progress of science and technology. The second part of the book is a detailed account of the history of the British Empire, from its beginnings in the 16th century to its decline in the 20th century. The author describes the expansion of the empire across the globe, the role of the British in the industrial revolution, and the impact of the empire on the world. The third part of the book is a study of the political and social changes that have shaped the modern world. The author examines the rise of democracy, the growth of the nation-state, and the challenges of the 20th century. The book is written in a clear and concise style, and is suitable for both students and general readers. It provides a comprehensive overview of world history and the development of the modern world.

Of West Bridgewater.

Rev. John Reed graduated at Yale College in 1772. He prepared for the ministry under the instruction of his father, in Titicut; and after the Declaration of Independence, was for some time chaplain in the United States Navy. On the 7th of January, 1780, he was ordained as pastor of the Congregational Church and Society in West Bridgewater; being the third minister in that ancient parish.

Mr. Reed was a man of remarkably clear and discriminating intellect; was known and acknowledged by the strong minds of his time as a master of logic—of ~~the~~ great art of thinking and reasoning correctly. In the earnest theological discussions between the Hopkinsians and the Arminians at the large clerical gatherings of fifty years ago, he always stood forward as the champion of the liberal doctrine. By his ready exposure of sophistry and his clear and forcible statements, the success of his argument was generally triumphant and crushing.

Soon after the adoption of the Federal Constitution, the almost unanimous sentiment of his Congressional District, pointed to him as eminently qualified, by his ardent patriotism, his sound judgment, his readiness and power in debate, for the office of representative in Congress; and in 1794, he was elected to fill the office which he held for six years, through three successive Congressional terms; at the close of which time he declined a re-election. In 1803, he received the degree of Doctor of Divinity from Brown University. Several of his discourses were published; and about the year 1805, he published a duodecimo volume on the subject of infant baptism.

In his intercourse with men, Mr. Reed's manner, notwithstanding his high intellectual claims, was always marked with great modesty and evident humility of spirit. His public discourses, always clear and convincing, were most noticeable, perhaps for their strength and pathos. In his devotional performance, his manner was most devout and reverential, and indicated unusual absorption of mind. He had the entire confidence and respect of his people, and performed among them, with great discretion and faithfulness, the duties of the Christian ministry for upwards of fifty years. Near the close of his life, he became entirely blind; but continued still to preach, and to perform other duties of his profession. He died Feb. 17, 1831, in his eightieth year. It is to be regretted that there is no print of his remarkably fine head.

m. Mar. 14, 1781, Susannah Willard, daughter of Col. Josiah and Hannah Willard of Winchester, N. H. (she was born June 2, 1757).

He graduated at Yale College in 1775; was ordained as minister of the Congregational Church of Petersham, Mass. He was represented to be a man of large frame and great physical power. His boldness and determination of character are illustrated by an incident at the time of Shay's rebellion, the account of which is from a reliable source. It relates that a party of Shay's troops came to Mr. Reed's house during a bad snow storm, one Sunday morning; turned Mr. Reed's cattle out of his barn and put their horses in; and at the same time took possession of his house, putting their camp kettles in the several fire places, and having things their own way. So great was the confusion that the Sabbath services were entirely interrupted; and when he had time to collect himself and determine his course of action, he went to the barn turned the horses out and put his own cattle back in their place; and in the house he passed from room to room manifesting such resolute determination that the troops were awed and restrained from violence. The result was that the report of the near approach of Genl. Bowdoin's troops induced the Shay party to decamp, in such haste as to leave several camp kettles behind them, and gave an opportunity of an uninterrupted afternoon service. (From J. W. R. Book, p. 370.) His widow married Asahel Pomeroy of Northampton, Mass., Feb. 24, 1763, and died Jan. 26, 1826, aged sixty-nine years.

The following inscription taken from his wife's father's tombstone, in Evergreen Cemetery, Winchester, N. H., will be of interest to their descendants:

“Col. Josiah Willard, who died April ye 19th, 1786, in the 72nd year of his age. His birth and education which were honorable he dishonored not in his youth. At an early period of his existence he began to figure on the stage of life, his disposition and manners were engaging, his connections numerous and respectable. His vocations various and important, his influence and usefulness equally extensive, and ye present populous and flourishing state of these western territories may be attributed in a great measure to his vigorous and laudable exertions in promoting ye settlement and cultivating of ye wilderness. His principles and morals were unimpeachable his faith and practice truly evangelical, sensible, sociable and benevolent. His heart and doors were always open to his friends in general and to ye learned regular and reputable among ye clergy in particular. He lived and died in a firm belief of ye Gospel, supported and animated to ye end of his course by ye hope and prospect of an immortal crown. His family and friends in his death sustain a loss irreparable. He will be had long in remembrance.

b. ———, 1754; d. July 13, 1812, aged 57 and in the 33rd year of his ministry.

m. 1780, Anna Shaw.

Of Warwick, Mass. (see J. W. R. extended acct., p. 370).

Samuel Reed graduated at Yale College in 1777; ordained over the church and society of Warwick, Mass., in 1779. He was a man of sound sense, a devoted Christian, and much beloved by his people, and the community generally. After his death his bereaved flock erected a monument to his memory. It is a marble tablet, supported by four pillars over his grave with the following inscription:

REV. SAMUEL REED.

Second minister in Warwick,
 Died July 31st. 1812, aged 57.

He had strong powers of mind; was bold in defense of the truth; severe against wickedness; mild towards the humble; pitiful to the distressed; affectionate towards his friends.

Frank and sincere in all his professions; rational and fervent in his piety; faithful in his pastoral duties.

He taught the Christian doctrine in its simplicity and truth; he maintained the freedom of the human mind, the unchangeable obligations of moral duty, the impartial justice of God, and future retribution.

The first part of the report deals with the general situation of the country and the progress of the war. It is a very interesting and detailed account of the events of the year.

The second part of the report deals with the military operations of the year. It is a very detailed and accurate account of the campaigns and battles.

Hayward's Gazetteer of Mass., says: "Another important manufacture took its rise early in this town, (Abington), viz. the manufacture of cut nails and brads. The making of tacks by hand commenced early. But the mode of making by hand was much improved upon by moveable dies placed in an frame like an ox-bow, and brought together by the pressure of the foot. This was a great improvement and the inventor, Mr. Ezekiel Reed was entitled to a patent. In 1815 and 1816 a machine was invented by Jesse Reed, son of Ezekiel Reed, to make tacks in one operation. They were soon after much improved by Thomas Blanchard and others. For the exclusive patent rights of these inventions Elihu and Benj. Hobart paid thirty thousand dollars. The price of tacks was reduced 50% immediately. When they had just got their machines in operation they learned that a large consignment of tacks had been received in this country from England, and their tacks sent over here for sale. Under these circumstances they were led to look to our Government for relief and protection. A Bill was immediately passed in Congress fixing the duty on imported tacks at five cents per hundred, up to 16 oz. tacks and after that at 5 cents per pound, and also including brads and sparables. Without this tax the business must have been given up in this country.

It is also claimed for Ezekiel Reed that he made the first wooden clocks made in the United States. His brother Samuel is reported to have owned one of them with maker's name on the face. Cyrus M. Reed the grandson of Samuel Reed, wrote that he had seen it many times.

His father having died when he was about seven years of age he was bound to Deacon Whitmarsh, a shoemaker.

When the war of the Revolution broke out everybody went to war; and Deacon Whitmarsh turned out his bound boy to go to the war, he being about twenty years of age.

All of their children were born in Chesterfield, Mass.

Cyrus M. Reed, son of Simeon Reed, says, "In searching the town records of Chesterfield, Mass., I find Samuel Reed came from Abington and settled in Chesterfield about 1778 or 1780."

Hobart's History of Abington says of the old French War, "This war was waged between England and France, continued seven years and terminated in 1763. Abington contributed largely of her strength to carry on this war. The following persons were in the service and died therein or on their way home at the close of that war." Then follows a list of nineteen and among them is Ezekiel son of John Reed. "This substantiates the testimony of Nelson K. and Ellen R. Reed, that their grandfather was a soldier in the French and English war, and died on shipboard and was buried at sea at the close of the war of 1763."

Ellen R. Reed of Brockport copies some records left her by her father, Daniel Reed, to the effect that Samuel Reed (our grandfather), was bound to one Dea. Whitmarsh a shoemaker. "When the Revolutionary War broke out everybody went to war, including Samuel Reed our grandfather, then not quite twenty years old. He served three years. At one time while out on a scout with twelve others they suddenly came upon a company of Red Coats who fired upon them. Some threw down their arms and fled. Grandfather ran but the straps of his knapsack caught in a bush. While trying to disentangle himself the bullets flew thick around him. He thus became separated from his comrades and it was several weeks before he could find his command, as they had moved and he could get no trace of them in that sparsely settled country." Hobart's History of Abington substantiates all this by saying:

"Ebenezer Whitmarsh and family were probably in Abington some time before 1712." He says further in speaking of the war of the Revolution: "Almost every man capable of bearing arms was in the war for a shorter or longer period." This explains why Dea. Whitmarsh was called on to turn out his bound boy.

Of Cummington, Mass.

The Abington Town Records read "Benj. Reed of No. 5 (which was Cummington, Mass.) and Miss Huldah Pratt of Bridgewater was married Dec. the 3rd. 1778."

The Pratt family attended church in Abington, nothing is yet known of the antecedents of Huldah, who died May 17, 1842, aged eighty-two, seven years after the death of Benjamin.

Huldah Pratt died in Putney, Vt., and lies buried beside her husband Benjamin, in the East Putney or Putney Falls Cemetery. The stone marking her grave reads "Huldah widow of Benjamin Reed died May 17, 1842, Aged 82—

'Adieu my friends and children daer,
 Who in the worl remain;
 May virtue be your practice here
 Till wee do meet again.'

Benjamin probably went to Cummington from Abington between 1770 and 1775, about the time that Daniel Reed, son of William and Alice (Nash) Reed, and who was first Moderator at Cummington, went there. At the age of twenty-three Benjamin enlisted at Cummington, April 21, 1775, as a minute man, at the Lexington Alarm. He served almost continuously in the Revolutionary struggle, from this date, until the final date of discharge, Nov. 29, 1777.

He was in the company commanded by Capt. Abel Thayer and Lt. Joseph Warner, from Cummington and Williamsborough. Was in the siege of Boston, in the Eighth Regt. of Foot, posted in Dorchester, commanded by Col. John Fellows, Oct., 1775. His name is on the "Coat Rolls," Nov. 22, 1775; was at Morristown, March. 15, 1777, in Capt. Jonathan Wales' Co., Regt. commanded by Lt. Col. S. Williams.

In the northern army in Capt. Joseph Warner's Co. and Col. Ruggles' Woodbridge Regt. Aug. 18, 1777, to Nov. 29, 1777, being engaged in the battle of Saratoga, Oct. 7, 1777. These abstracts are from a certified copy from Mass. State (Revolutionary) Archives.

The Department of the Interior, Bureau of Pensions, at Washington, has this record of his application for a pension.

"He first entered the service in the year 1775. Discharged finally sometime during the year 1777, having rendered nine months actual service as a private and eight months actual service as a corporal with the Massachusetts troops. He mentions the following as officers under whom he served: Capt. Thayer and Capt. Warner. Engaged at Saratoga. Residence at the time of enlistment Cummington, Mass. Date of application for pension July 24, 1832, residence at date of application Putney, Vt., age at date of application 80 years." His pension was allowed.

This was fifty-five years after his discharge, when old and infirm. He received only one payment, as he was placed on the pension rolls March, 1834. The amount of his pension was $60 18/100.

"Three months after his marriage he sold land at Cummington, Mass., Mar. 9, 1779" (Registry of deeds, Hampshire Co. Records, Springfield, Mass.); "Apr. 28, 1780, (two months after the death of Peter his father) Benjamin and Huldah sold 45 acres of land in Cummington, Mass., for 100 pounds, to one Jephthah Pool of Windsor." Benjamin is recorded as yeoman in the deed. (Registry of Deeds, Hampshire Co. Records, Springfield, Mass.)

There is no record of the family from this date until 1812 when his fifth child is said to have been living in Newfane, Vt., at the age of twenty-four. Benjamin was thus one of the youngest sons of Vermont, as Vermont was admitted into the Union in 1791.

He was a farmer owning a fine farm on the Connecticut river in East Putney. It was intersected by the Vermont Valley Railroad (afterward Central Vermont), in later years, and its value somewhat impaired. The farm is now owned by Geo. W. Leach (1899) and occupied by his son F. C. Leach. Mrs. Evans, granddaughter of Sarah (Benjamin's sister), remembers (1898) visiting the old house, still standing, and knew Benjamin and Huldah well. She says they were fine people, of good character and well beloved by all who knew them. They were members of the Congregational Church in Putney, Vt. Benjamin was living with his son Luther when he died. He lies buried in East Putney Cemetery. His stone is inscribed:

"Benjamin Read died Jan. 10, 1835, Aged 82 years." His farm went jointly to his sons Calvin and Luther at his death.

Of Easton.

Rev. William Reed, being in early life religiously disposed, desired a liberal education, with the purpose of entering the Christian ministry. He graduated at Harvard College in 1782; and in April, 1784, was ordained as pastor in the Congregational Church in Easton, Mass., where he remained for upwards of twenty-five years. His ministry, though not distinguished by unusual instances of religious excitement, was a successful one, considering its limited duration. The number of church members was much increased, and his labors were believed by disinterested observers to have had an important influence in effecting a decided reformation in the moral character of the town, whose reputation in the surrounding places had for some time been low. There is an interesting sketch of him in "The History of Easton" of eighteen pages, which the want of space prevents being repeated here.

WILL

"In the name of God, Amen. I, Elijah Reed, of Middleborough in the County of Plymouth & Commonwealth of Massachusetts, gentleman, being weak in body, but of sound and perfect mind and memory, blessed be Almighty God for the same, do make and publish this my last will and testament in manner and form following (that is to say).

"First, I give and bequeath to my beloved wife Lucy Reed and Alice Reed my daughter, one half of my dwelling house where I now live, the southerly part of said house, and the north buttery in said house during my wife's natural life, and after the decease of my wife, so long as my daughter Alice remains single I give and bequeath to her the south front room on the lower floor in said house and the chamber over it and a bed room in the south end of sd. house.

"I also give and devise to my said daughter Alice Reed a certain piece of land to her, her heirs and assigns forever sd. land lying on the easterly side of the road near my dwelling house where I now live, and bounded as follows (to wit) beginning at a stake & stoues near the southeast corner of the barn, from thence east to a corner of the pasture by a pair of bars thence south by said bars and wall to Joseph Hathaway's line, thence in said Hathaway's line easterly to a corner, from thence northerly on sd. Hathaway's line to a corner, from thence on said Hathaway's line westerly to the road, from thence southerly by sd. road to a corner, from thence easterly running two rods distance from the north side of the barn two rods beyond the barn, thence southerly to the bounds first mentioned. I also give & devise to my sons Solomon Reed & Elijah Reed all my buildings and lands not above disposed of, to them their heirs and assigns forever, to be equally divided between them, also after the decease of my daughter Allice Reed—I give and bequeath to my sons Solomon & Elijah to them, their heirs & assigns forever, that part of my dwelling house which I have given to my said wife and daughter to occupy, to be equally divided between them. But if my sons Solomon & Elijah do not live until the decease of my wife & the marriage and decease of my daughter Allice, I give the same to their heirs forever.

“Also to my beloved wife, I give & bequeath one half of my indoor moveables. Also I give and bequeath to my daughter Allice the other half of my indoor moveables. I hereby order my sons Solomon & Elijah to pay all my just debts and also to pay to my son Beezar Reed four hundred and fifty dollars in two years after my decease and four hundred & fifty dollars more in two years after the decease of my wife, also, I order my two sons Solomon & Elijah to pay my daughter Sarah Keith one hundred and fifty dollars in two years after my decease, and one hundred & fifty dollars more in two years after the decease of my wife—I also order my sons Solomon and Elijah to pay my daughter Parnal Edson, one hundred and fifty dollars in two years after my decease, and one hundred & fifty dollars more in two years after the decease of my wife—Also I order my sons Solomon & Elijah to pay my daughter Lucy Eaton one hundred and fifty dollars in two years after my decease & one hundred & fifty dollars more in two years after the decease of my wife. I also give and bequeath to my beloved wife one cow which I order my sons Solomon & Elijah to keep for her or some other in the room of it free from any expense to her during her natural life, also I give and bequeath to my wife & daughter Allice Reed one heifer a year old last Spring. I hereby order my two sons Solomon & Elijah to be at one half of the expense of keeping said heifer for their mother—also I give & bequeath to my daughter Allice one cow.

"I hereby appoint my two sons Solomon & Elijah sole executors of this my last will & testament, hereby revoking all former wills by me made. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand & seal this twenty-eighth day of August in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred & sixteen.

Elijah Reed (Seal) "

"Signed, sealed, published & declared by the above named Elijah Reed to be his last will & testament in the presence of us who have hereunto subscribed our names as witnesses in the presence of the testator.

WILL

“In the name of God Amen. I Daniel Reed of Abington in the County of Plymouth, and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, yeoman, being advanced in years, but being in free exercise of reason & memory, calling to mind the mortality of my body and knowing that it is appointed for man once to die—do make & ordain this my last will & testament—that is to say principally & first of all I give and recommend my Soul into the hands of God that gave it, hoping for a full & free pardon of all my sins through the merits of Jesus Christ my only redeemer & Savior—and my body I recommend to the earth to be buried with Christian burial nothing doubting but at the general resurrection I shall receive the same by the mighty power of God—And as touching such worldly estate wherewith it hath pleased God to bless me with in this life, I give & dispose of the same in the following manner, viz:—

“Imprimis:—I give and bequeath to my son, Daniel Reed, a piece of land lying on the westerly side of the road near John Chamberlain’s dwelling house—also the homestead farm I bought of Benjamin Townsend with the buildings standing thereon—Likewise one other piece of land lying on the road leading to Hanover near Ezekiel Townsend’s dwelling house called Mattakees Plain—also the one half of a lot of timber & pasture land lying on the east side of my mill river—likewise the north mowing field of my homestead farm, north of my small farm, bounded northerly by the land that formerly belonged to Samuel Nash, easterly by the road, southerly as the stone wall now stands across said lot—Also a piece of woodland lying north of the school-house on the easterly side of the road, bounded northerly by the land of my son Daniel Reed then Westerly by the road, to run southerly so far by said road as to bring it on a straight line with the wall mentioned on the other side of said road, then to run easterly on a straight line with said wall, until it extends so far as by turning & running northerly shall bring it on a straight line with the boundary line between John Tolman's and my son Daniel.

"Daniel Reed.—Likewise a piece of meadow land, lying in the Old Mill Pond (so called) also one third part of a saw mill formerly known by the name of French's Mill with all the privileges & appurtenances thereunto belonging. Also the one half of a pew in the Abington Meeting House, which pew the said Daniel now occupies.

"Item.—I give and bequeath to my son Jacob Reed the whole of my homestead farm, excepting that which I have given to my son Daniel Reed, together with all the buildings standing thereon, also the one third of the saw mill before mentioned with all the privileges & appurtenances thereunto belonging, likewise the one half of a pew in Abington Meeting House which I now occupy—Also the lands which I bought of Robert Townsend & Benjamin Townsend lying near the saw mill above mentioned, with the dwelling house standing thereon, like wise a piece of salt meadow lying in Weymouth in the old Cedar Swamp (so called).

"Item:—I give to my son John Reed the improvement of two thirds of the Job House farm (so called) where he now lives with the buildings thereon during the term of his natural life & at his decease is given & bequeathed to my four grandchildren & children of my son John Reed (viz) John, Owen, Nancy & Ruth Reed, in the following manner, two thirds of the above described premises equally to my two grandchildren above mentioned John & Owen Reed & one third equally to my two granddaughters above mentioned Nancy & Ruth Reed I likewise give and bequeath to my son John Reed the other half of the last mentioned pew—

"Item:—I give and bequeath to my daughter Ruth Torrey the land & buildings that I bought of Job House, which formerly belonged to Ezekiel Lincoln, which Nathaniel Wells Bennett now improves—

“Item:—I give and bequeath to my daughter Sarah Shaw seven hundred dollars to be paid equally by my two sons Daniel Reed & Jacob Reed in one year after my decease.

“Item:—I furthermore give & bequeath to my three sons Daniel Jacob & John Reed equally my money on hand & all securities for money of all kinds—I likewise give to my sons Daniel & John Reed all my wearing apparel equally.

“Also I give to my son Jacob Reed all my real estate that I have not otherwise disposed of with all my outdoor and indoor moveables—

“Item:—I appoint & ordain my son Jacob Reed my sole executor to this my last will & testament—“Lastly it is my will & pleasure that my just debts & funeral charges be paid equally by my two sons Daniel & Jacob Reed.

“In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand & seal this thirteenth day of June in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred & six.

Daniel Reed (Seal)”

“Signed sealed, published & declared by the said Daniel Reed to be his last will & testament in presence of us the subscribers.

John Reed, son of John and Mary (Bates) Reed.

b. (Weymouth, Mass.) Feb. 13, 1755.

m. Jan. 5, 1779 (at Braintree), Rachel Clark, daughter of Ebenezer and Abigail (Ager) Clark. They resided in Bolton, Mass.; m. by Rev. Ezra Wild.

For trace of Rachel Clark's ancestry, see appendix.

He removed to Bolton about or a little before the year 1800.

He was one of the men who built the fortifications on Dorchester Heights, which caused the British to evacuate Boston. His military record was as follows: Private, Capt. Jacob Gould's Co., Col. Benjamin Lincoln's Regiment, April 19, 1775. Private, Capt. Joseph Trufant's Independent Co., May 9, 1775. Private, Capt. Thomas Nash's Co., Col. Solomon Lovell's Regiment, March 4, 1776. Private in Capt. Joseph Trufant's Co., Col. Josiah Whitney's Regiment, May 22, 1776, to Jan. 1, 1777. Sergeant, Independent Companies, March 1, 1777.

The explanation of his service in so many different companies is, that he was a minute man and only served when he was called out. He served altogether seventeen months and twenty-three days.

He drew a pension the latter part of his life. His wife was fair, blue eyes, and a very quick witted, bright woman.

The Col. Benjamin Lincoln mentioned above afterwards became quite a distinguished officer; was made Major General and had command of a division of Washington's army; was later Secretary of War, and after this war, had command of the Massachusetts troops who put down Shay's rebellion.

Noah Reed, son of John and Mary (Bates) Reed.

b. Nov. 18, 1759; d. Sept. 20, 1837.

m. July 6, 1788, Mehetable Wild of Milton, whose father kept a tavern in the house once owned and occupied by C. L. Copeland, and later removed to Randolph avenue, near Pleasant. Noah Reed was a shoemaker by trade, but on account of feeble health came to Milton and bought of Daniel Vose, July 13, 1795, the homestead formerly owned by Capt. Samuel Wadsworth. The spot where the old house stood is opposite Geo. K. Gannet's residence between Randolph avenue and Highland street, the original house was burned in 1669. The second house was built by Capt. Wadsworth and was purchased by Noah Reed. It was taken down in 1803; its walls were packed with seaweed, a common custom in those early times. About 1801 Noah Reed bought of Joel Pratt the house built by John Gibbons on the corner of Highland and Reed streets where Mrs. Charlotte (Reed) Wadsworth resided.

The first meeting of the Royal Society was held on 28th December 1660, at Gresham College, London. It was organized by Francis Bacon, who had been created a baron in 1619, and was the first president of the society.

The society was founded to promote the study of natural philosophy, and to encourage the advancement of science and the arts. It was the first of its kind in England, and its members were the first to meet regularly to discuss their work.

The society's first meeting was held in a room in Gresham College, which was then the headquarters of the Royal Exchange. The members of the society were the first to meet regularly to discuss their work.

The first step in the process of accounting is to identify the transactions that have occurred during the period. These transactions are then recorded in the accounting system. The next step is to classify the transactions into the appropriate accounts. This is done by using the accounting equation, which states that assets equal liabilities plus equity. The transactions are then summarized in the form of a trial balance, which shows the debit and credit balances for each account. Finally, the trial balance is used to prepare the financial statements, which provide a summary of the company's financial performance over the period.

The accounting cycle consists of eight steps: 1. Identify the transactions that have occurred during the period. 2. Record the transactions in the accounting system. 3. Classify the transactions into the appropriate accounts. 4. Summarize the transactions in the form of a trial balance. 5. Prepare the financial statements. 6. Close the books for the period. 7. Prepare the financial statements for the next period. 8. Repeat the process for the next period.

The accounting cycle is a continuous process that repeats itself every year. It is essential for the company to follow the accounting cycle in order to maintain accurate financial records and to provide reliable financial information to the stakeholders. The accounting cycle also helps the company to identify any errors or discrepancies in the accounting system and to correct them in a timely manner.

The first part of the report deals with the general situation of the profession in the United States. It is noted that the number of physicians has increased steadily since 1900, and that the distribution of physicians is still uneven, with a concentration in the large cities and a shortage in the rural areas.

The second part of the report deals with the education of physicians. It is noted that the standards of medical education have been raised, and that the curriculum has become more comprehensive. It is also noted that the length of the course of study has been extended to five years.

The third part of the report deals with the licensing of physicians. It is noted that the requirements for licensure have become more stringent, and that the process of licensure has become more uniform in all States.

The fourth part of the report deals with the practice of medicine. It is noted that the general public is becoming more health-conscious, and that there is a demand for more services from the physician. It is also noted that the physician is becoming more of a specialist, and that the general practitioner is being replaced by the specialist.

The fifth part of the report deals with the economic situation of the physician. It is noted that the physician's income has increased, but that the cost of living has also increased. It is also noted that the physician is becoming more of a business, and that the practice of medicine is becoming more of a profession.

The sixth part of the report deals with the future of the profession. It is noted that the physician will continue to be in demand, and that the profession will continue to grow. It is also noted that the physician will continue to be a generalist, and that the general practitioner will continue to be the backbone of the profession.

The seventh part of the report deals with the organization of the profession. It is noted that the American Medical Association is the largest and most influential organization of the profession. It is also noted that there are many other organizations, and that the profession is becoming more organized.

The eighth part of the report deals with the conclusion. It is noted that the profession is in a state of transition, and that the physician is becoming more of a specialist. It is also noted that the physician is becoming more of a business, and that the practice of medicine is becoming more of a profession.

WILL

"I David Reed of Ware in the County of Hampshire and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, being of sound and disposing mind and memory, but considering myself near the close of life, do make and publish this my last will and testament.

"I give to my wife Eliza Reed all the household furniture, clothing and other personal property in the house we now occupy.

"I also give to her all the notes I hold and whatever may be due me at my decease, for her own use, so long as she shall remain my widow, enjoining it upon her to pay all my just debts, and in case of her intermarriage, or in case she shall not need the whole amount she shall receive from my estate for her comfortable support, it is my will that the rest and residue shall go to my son David H. Reed, his heirs.

"I nominate and appoint my wife Eliza Reed to be sole executrix of this my last will and testament, hereby revoking all former wills by me made.

"In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal this twenty first day of October, Eighteen Hundred and forty eight.

David Reed (Seal)"

"Signed sealed published and declared by the said David Reed as his last will and testament in the presence of us, who in his presence and in the presence of each other set our names as witnesses to the same.

He had the advantages of the district schools of his day, but was eminently a self-made man. He was of fine appearance and pure moral character. His father died when he was but eight years old, and from that time until their death he was the mainstay of his widowed mother and invalid sister. In the war of 1812 he was for some time connected with the commissary department—taking stores to different points. At Plainfield, Mass., he owned and cultivated a small farm. Susannah Noyes completed her education at Leicester Academy, Mass. She was a beautiful and talented woman. They were both good singers, and he was for many years the choir leader in the Congregational Church (Rev. Moses Hallock, pastor) with which they were connected.

Hon. John Reed, son of Rev. John and Hannah (Sampson) Reed.

b. Sept. 2, 1781.

m. ———, Olive Alger, daughter of Abiezer Alger, Esq., of West Bridgewater.

(See extended account in J. W. R., p. 363.)

Of Yarmouth, Mass.

John Reed graduated at Brown University in 1803. The first two or three years after leaving college he devoted to teaching, first as preceptor of Plymouth Academy, Bridgewater, and then as tutor in Brown University. He chose the profession of law, and pursued his preparatory studies with the Hon. William Baylies, an eminent attorney of his town. He commenced the practice of law at Yarmouth, on Cape Cod. He soon attained eminence in his profession, and was elected a representative in Congress. This office he filled for twenty-eight years. By the impartiality of his course on all important questions, he early obtained in Congress the confidence of the members of both houses. His statements of facts and statistics relating to any subject of debate were always listened to as reliable and true. He thus exerted after the first years of his service, an important influence, especially in the settlement of all questions involving the interest of his district and state. There were instances indeed, particularly in the discussion of questions relating to the fisheries, when by a single speech he completely revolutionized the sentiment of the House, and changed the vote from a lean minority to a triumphant majority. In 1844 he was elected Lieutenant Governor, and was re-elected to that office each year during the administration of Gov. Briggs. In 1845 he received the degree of LL. D. from Brown University.

The following is an account of Caleb's life and character selected from an obituary notice published in the "New Jerusalem Magazine" of Nov., 1854:

in 1817. After teaching school in Medford one year, he entered the office of his brother, the Hon. John Reed (recently Lieutenant Governor of this State), and there pursued the study of law for three years. He was then admitted to the bar, and practised his profession in Yarmouth, where he resided until 1827; when he removed to Boston for the purpose of entering into the firm of Cyrus Alger & Co., which was afterwards incorporated as the South-Boston Iron Co., and is widely known as one of the principal iron-founding establishments in the United States. He remained connected with this company until his death, which was caused by an attack of dysentery, with fever; and took place on Saturday, the 14th of October, 1854. During this fatal illness he was cheerful and child-like; not resigned (for this implies the subdual or suppression of some unwillingness); and to use his own expression, he had no choice, but was glad to leave the issues of life and death in the hands of his Father.

“He received the doctrine of the New Jerusalem while studying law; being one of a circle of young men; of about the same age, who were in college together, and received these doctrines nearly at the same time, and have since lived near to each other in a companionship, from which the late Mr. Hobart, and now Mr. Reed, are all that have been called away. The wish to be with the society of the Church in Boston was one of the motives which led him to remove to this city. He assumed at once the position that belonged to his character, and has ever held it; through all these years, aiding materially in promoting every good work, and in averting from us much evil.

“In 1832 Mr. Reed took charge of the Magazine, and has ever since been its editor. Of the manner in which he conducted this work, we need not speak to the readers of it. One thing however we cannot forbear saying: that during this long period, he has sustained the Magazine, sometimes with but little of the aid which might have been rendered, always when pressed by the urgent cares and duties of a

“The funeral services took place in the afternoon of Tuesday, the 17th of October, in the New Jerusalem Church in Boston, and were attended by a large assemblage.”

Sampson graduated at Harvard College in 1818, where he held a high rank as a scholar. After graduating he remained at the university about two years as a theological student; but he finally removed to Boston, and adopted the profession of a merchant, a profession for which his honorable practice and example have uniformly tended to command respect.

Having early embraced the doctrines of the New Church, he has been one of the principal supporters of the society of this order in Boston, and of the General Convention of the New Church in America. His devotion to the interests of this church for a period of forty years has justly secured to him the confidence and respect of its members throughout the country. His literary tastes have led him to devote much time to books, and particularly to theological inquiries and studies. Besides his contributions to periodical literature, he has had the sole charge of the “New Church Magazine for Children” from its commencement in 1844; and also since the death of his brother Caleb, took a prominent part in the management of the “New Jerusalem Magazine.” In 1826 he published a small work, entitled “Observations on the growth of the mind," which has attracted much attention, and passed through five editions in this country, and one or more in England.

Unassuming in manners and of a retiring disposition, he has never sought place or influence in public affairs; though he has served two or three years in the office of alderman. The duties of this situation, as also those of membership of the public school committee, of bank director, and of various trusts, public and private, he has discharged in a manner to insure the general respect of his fellow citizens.

CHAPTER I

The first part of the history of the world is the history of the human race. It is a history of progress and of the struggle for existence. It is a history of the triumph of the good over the evil, and of the ultimate triumph of the human spirit over all the forces of nature and of the devil.

The second part of the history of the world is the history of the human mind. It is a history of the development of the human intellect, and of the discovery of the laws of nature and of the human soul. It is a history of the triumph of the human mind over all the forces of nature and of the devil. It is a history of the triumph of the human spirit over all the forces of nature and of the devil.

The third part of the history of the world is the history of the human heart. It is a history of the development of the human emotions, and of the discovery of the laws of the human soul. It is a history of the triumph of the human heart over all the forces of nature and of the devil.

The fourth part of the history of the world is the history of the human will. It is a history of the development of the human volition, and of the discovery of the laws of the human soul. It is a history of the triumph of the human will over all the forces of nature and of the devil.

The fifth part of the history of the world is the history of the human soul. It is a history of the development of the human spirit, and of the discovery of the laws of the human soul. It is a history of the triumph of the human soul over all the forces of nature and of the devil.

Hobart's Abington says, "Jesse Reed, son of Ezekiel and Mary, born in 1778, married Hannah Howard, daughter of Caleb Howard in 1800. He is known as Col. Reed and lives in Marshfield. He has probably been the author of more new inventions, and obtained more patents than any other man in the United States.

"Among his long lists of his new inventions are machines known as the 'Odiorne Tool' or 'Reed Tool'; the machine is now in almost universal use for making cut nails; and machines for steering vessels, as well as various kinds of pumps, treenail machines, cotton gins, &c. He is said to be a man of great industry and indomitable perseverance. He has made and lost several fortunes. Although poor, he has made many rich, and his name will be remembered by future generations with respect and gratitude. Though no towering monument shall be erected to his memory, yet every nail driven in our dwellings, will speak forth the benefits of his wonderful ingenuity."

Hobart's Abington, says farther, "The blacksmiths have been few." Among them he mentions Cyrus Stearns and Thomas W. Stearns.

Cyrus Stearns invented the circular claw to the modern nail or claw hammer. The claw was formerly at a right angle, and none others were in use until Cyrus Stearns made several with the circular claw, which soon became the universal pattern.

He was a native of Chesterfield, Mass. Was but a short time in the war of 1812, for which he received in 1856, a land warrant for 160 acres of government land. Cyrus M. Reed, of West Springfield, Pa., writes: "I also found the name of Joseph Reed (in Records of Chesterfield, Mass.) as First Serg't of Co. I 4th Mass. State Militia: and saw several orders calling the Company out, signed Joseph Reed." He was both a fifer and a drummer.

The six eldest of his children were born in Orleans county, N. Y.; the three next were born in Chautauqua county, N. Y.; and the three youngest in Geauga county, Ohio.

m. 2nd Nov. 23, 1826, Lucy Keyes, daughter of Jonas and Bridget (Reed) Keyes of Putney, Vt.; b. Aug. 21, 1793; d. Jan. 19, 1880; buried at Forest Hills, Roxbury, Mass.

According to an old record he was living in Newfane, Vt., sometime before 1812. He built a house that was called the Parrish, it was still standing and occupied in 1892, by a Mr. Betterly. He moved to Williamsville about 1816, and kept the first hotel there. He is supposed to have removed to West Dummerston about 1829 and also kept the hotel there. It was on the main road from Williamsville to Brattleboro, the building was still standing in 1898.

David also at one time in his life and during later years lived for a time in Dracut, Mass., a suburb of Lowell, where he carried on a baking business. He afterwards removed to Williamsville, Vt., where he died July 13, 1842.

Bridget Keyes, mother of Lucy Keyes Reed, was the daughter of Samuel Reed and Hannah Underwood Reed of Westford, Mass. Samuel Reed being a descendant of Esdras Reed, one of the first settlers of Boston.

David, while living in Dracut, Mass., was injured by a carriage accident, which weakened his health and obliged him to give up a prosperous business and return with his family to Dummerston, Vt., where he died shortly afterwards. He lies buried in Williamsville, Vt., Cemetery, beside Mary Martha his first wife and their child Ransford. At the death of David, his widow Lucy and their three children, Lucy, Juliette, and David removed to Roxbury, Mass., where they all resided for many years. The widow Lucy was a member of the Warren street M. E. Church. She died in Roxbury, Jan. 19, 1880. She lies buried in the Forest Hills Cemetery.

Jonas Keyes, father of Lucy (Keyes) Reed, was son of Daniel Keyes, 1731-1814, and Abigail Porter, 1738-1830, both died in Putney, Vt., but came there from Westford and Chelmsford. The Reed and Keyes houses still stand in Westford (1898).

Luther Reed was a stage driver and did teaming between Boston and Putney, Vt., in the days before the railroads. He owned a small farm adjoining his father Benjamin's. The farm was sold to Chas. Campbell who sold it to Warren Leach, the father of the present owner and occupant. The house is still standing (1898) and is occupied by Geo. W. Leach, who points out the room where Luther Reed died. The house stands on the bank of the Connecticut river, and a gigantic maple, whose trunk touches the house, was planted by Harriet Reed, daughter of Luther Reed, who took a tiny shoot from the water's edge and planted it next to the house.

m. 2nd. Nov., 1822, Abigail Howe, widow of Calvin Howe, in Boston.

On leaving college he spent several years as a teacher, first in Plymouth, then in charge of Milton Academy, and was popular and successful. He afterwards completed a course of study at Divinity School, Cambridge, and preached for several years but never took permanent charge of a parish. In middle life he settled on the homestead of his father at Easton, where for many years he held the commission and performed the duties of a justice of the peace.

m. May 2, 1836, Mary Ann Williams; b. March 28, 1805, at Providence; daughter of Capt. Howell Williams and Dolly (Wheat) Williams.

He was a soldier in the war of 1812.

Of Roxbury, Mass.

David graduated from Brown University in 1810; being a classmate of his elder brother William. Immediately on leaving college he commenced teaching. In Sept., 1810, he took charge of the Plymouth Academy at Bridgewater, and continued this connection two years; in the meantime and during part of the following year, giving attention as far as other duties permitted, to professional studies with Rev. Dr. Sanger, then minister of the Congregational Society in South Bridgewater. Early in 1813 he removed to Cambridge and pursued his studies at the Divinity School. He commenced preaching in 1814; and from that time until 1821, had charge of different parishes for considerably extended periods, in Maine, New Hampshire, and Connecticut, but was not ordained. The disturbed state of religious opinions in the parishes at that time, at the breaking out of the great controversy between the liberal and orthodox parties in the Congregational body, and his experiences of the privations to which a clergyman's family were liable from precarious and inadequate support, led him to decline a permanent parochial connection, till he should be able, without worldly anxiety or embarrassment, to devote himself fully to professional duty.

The opportunity which his mode of life gave him, in these years of learning the state of religious sentiment and inquiry in various communities, and the growing interest generally manifested in the religious discussions of the time, induced him to propose the publication of a religious newspaper, as an advocate of liberal Christian views; and, with the approbation of his clerical friends, Rev. Dr. Channing, Rev. Dr. Ware and others he commenced in Boston in April in 1821, the publication of the "Christian Register," taking himself its editorial management; and he continued for fifty years as its publisher and proprietor. In politics he was a republican.

He was fitted for college by his uncle (by marriage) Rev. David Gurney of Middleborough, Mass. Graduated at Harvard University in 1816. He attended the Unitarian church, he being secretary and treasurer of the parish in Milton for many years. He was a lawyer, held many town offices, was for many years a member of the State Legislature. In 1836, on account of his failing health, he gave up practice of law and removed to Milton where he purchased the estate of his father-in-law, Mr. Ezra Coates, where he remained until his decease, in 1873. A public road was laid out through the old homestead a few years ago which at the request of his daughter and in honor of her father was called Reedsdale road.

He was engaged in business in Baltimore from 1832 to 1842, in Boston from 1842 to 1856, in Baltimore from 1856 to 1863, in New York from 1863 to 1872, and in Boston from 1872 to his death. He was a Unitarian. In politics he was a Democrat and served as alderman, in Boston, 1845-6. He was stout, with dark hair and eyes.

Of Boston.

In 1830, Lyman Reed delivered, before the Lyceum in Montpelier, Vt., a lecture on the then new subject of "Rail Roads," and as chairman of a committee presented a report, advocating the building of a railroad from Boston to Ogdensburg by the way of Concord, Montpelier and Burlington.

In his lecture he made the prediction, that the time would soon come when a person leaving Montpelier by the railroad would find himself walking in the streets of Boston in six hours, the time then in making the journey to Boston was fifty-four hours. He was considered crazy and called a lunatic.

In this lecture he used the following language which is without doubt, the first recorded conception of our modern Parlor and Sleeping Cars:

"A carriage can be so constructed that it shall possess every comfort and convenience of the modern steam-boat, the travellers then in this land barge will find themselves seated in a social circle, enjoying every comfort which an elegant drawing-room can impart, amusing themselves in reading and writing and at the same time travelling at the rate of 20 or 30 miles an hour."

"The farmer of the valley of the Onion River can at evening place his products in the R. R. carriages, take his berth for the night and at sunrise find himself and his vegetables in Boston."

In Sept. 1851, the city of Boston, in appreciation of the benefit it was to derive from the completion of the railroad, proposed and advocated in 1830, held a "R. R. Jubilee," at which President Fillmore and his cabinet, Lord Elgin, Governor General of Canada and other distinguished persons were present. The festivities lasted three days. The feature of the last was the military and civic procession.

To show some of the results accomplished by the completion of the railroad, two wagons, loaded with flour, were, at the particular request of the railroad committee, brought into the procession, one of which was surmounted by a banner bearing the following inscription:

WESTERN VIRGINIA FLOUR

Via Ohio River, Great Lakes, Ogdensburg, and Vermont R. R.

772 Bbls. from one Mill consigned to Lyman Reed & Co.

Distance 1000 miles in 12 days.

Freight $1.05 from Ohio River to Boston.

On the reverse of the banner were the resolutions presented by Lyman Reed at Montpelier in 1830, one of which reads: "That the public good requires vigorous and persevering efforts on the part of all intelligent and public spirited individuals, until by their enterprise the survey and completion of a R. R. is accomplished from the seaboard at Boston through Lowell, Concord, Montpelier to Lake Champlain and thence to Ogdensburg, N. Y."

Major Marcus Reed was a man of superior natural ability, which had been given the right direction by excellent parentage and by a good education in the schools of Abington. These abilities, his reliable honesty and faithfulness were soon taken notice of by his townsmen and he became one of the most popular and favored men of his town. He was called early to serve the town and to fill its offices, often serving in two and three at the same time. He held the position of selectman in the old town of Abington for twenty-four years. He was town clerk, assessor, overseer of the poor, etc. During the Rebellion he was enrolling officer for Abington. This imposed upon him the duty of looking

He came to Virginia about the year 1807 or 1808.
He settled in Petersburg under the patronage of Canterbury & Co., of Boston. After a few years he removed to Richmond and for many years was engaged largely in business.
From there he removed to New Orleans and was very successful in his business operations. His health failing he returned to Richmond and was for many years a leading merchant of that city. He established a line of packets between Richmond and New Orleans, also one between Richmond and the West India Islands. His vessels were freighted with flour to many foreign ports and returned laden with fruits and wines. Being of an enterprising disposition he was the founder of a well known Fire and Marine Insurance Company, which is still in a flourishing condition in Richmond.

The family of Reeds have been noted as amateur musicians of fine taste. Elias Reed at the early age of 18 or 19 (1801-2) used to play in the "Old South" Boston on the violoncello before it could boast of an organ. The instrument used for many years was brought from Boston and is said to be the oldest in the country, and is now in the possession of Leonidas Coil, Washington, D. C.

David Reed, the brother, was a prominent singer in the Handel and Haydn Society of Boston; Elias Reed was in the Richmond theatre the night it was burned but did not remain to the conclusion of the play, a mysterious intuition seemed to prompt him to leave, though urged by his friends not to do so; before he reached home the building was in a blaze.

Of Chambersburg, Pa.

The following clipping from the daily "Repository" of Chambersburg written two years before his death gives the principal items of interest connected with his life:

"In Repository of June 17, 1884, we published an extensive article on the life of Mr. Reed, written by our postmaster, Mr. E. W. Curriden (who obtained the facts from Mr. Reed's lips), from which we take the following extracts:

"Mr. Reed was born at Weymouth, Massachusetts, some nine miles from Boston, on the 18th of September, 1790. He was next to the youngest of eleven children and the only member of the family who survives. His parents reached the age of 82 years. Of the large family of children but one brother attained advanced years. He died at 80.

"When our venerable citizen was fifteen years of age he entered the store of Jacob Canterbury, dealer in shoes and leather, at the city of Boston. He was there but a short time when he accepted a position in the establishment of his brother Elias, then one of the leading merchants in the city of Richmond, Va. Some three years following, having occasion to return to Boston and falling into the company of his old friend and employer, Mr. Canterbury, he was prevailed upon to return to the Old Dominion in the interest of that gentleman. He was entrusted with a stock of goods consigned to Fredericksburg, then a town of some commercial importance. War with Great Britain being imminent and business as a consequence being paralyzed in Fredericksburg, Mr. Reed transferred the merchandise in his custody to a store Mr. Canterbury had at Petersburg at the same time.

“The feeling of Americans at that time towards the mother country was exceedingly bitter, and a merchant’s reputation was injured by dealing in any article manufactured abroad. In the midst of the general gloom that everywhere prevailed in those tempestuous times, Mr. Reed united with Josephus Colton from his native State in the establishment of a domestic dry goods store at Richmond. The firm was immediately successful in their venture, despite the hard times with which they had to contend, the profits of their first year’s business aggregating some seven thousand dollars. They dealt largely, not only in domestic goods, but as the war progressed handled merchandise of various kinds captured by American seamen upon the deep, and at various opportune times Mr. Reed and his partner invested profitably in goods taken from the enemy upon American waters.

“In 1814 Mr. Reed rode from Boston to Richmond on horseback and his journey thither and return was full of exciting incidents as the war with the British was then in progress. Upon reaching Philadelphia on his homeward ride he was arrested by the military authorities of the city upon suspicion of being a British spy and was confronted by the Mayor. Being readily able to have himself identified he was soon released from surveillance. When he approached Washington he learned of its capture by the British, and the destruction of the capitol by fire. Thence to Richmond he was besieged with inhabitants along the road seeking information concerning the destruction of the public buildings. On the morning following his return to Richmond he donned the garb of a soldier, shouldered a musket and joined in the defense of the city. For twenty-eight days he lent himself to the 'pomp and circumstance of war,' but at the end of that time the emergency having passed he, together with many other militiamen, was relieved from duty, and was not summoned back into service.

"After the war closed an addition was made to the firm of Colton & Reed in the person of Henry Clark, and the style of the firm was changed to that of Colton, Reed & Clark. The firm established a commission house in Boston, the management of which was entrusted to Mr. Reed. While engaged in business there Mr. Reed was one who attended the corner stone laying of Bunker Hill monument, where he saw General Lafayette and listened to the oration of Daniel Webster, which has taken its place among American classics.

"On the 21st of November, 1820, Mr. Reed visited Plymouth, Mass., and participated in the ceremonies held there at the bi-centennial of the landing of the Pilgrims.

"On the 14th of March, 1826, Mr. Reed was united in marriage with Miss Charlotte Stickney of Worcester, Mass., who retains her faculties and enjoys life with as much zest as her patriarchal husband. Some years subsequently to this marriage Mr. Reed severed his connection with the firm with which he had been identified in Richmond, to accept the inspectorship of the James River and Kanawha Canal Company, and removed to Scottsville, Va., in the discharge of the duties of his position. The canal had been but fairly completed and was regarded as one of the grandest triumphs of the age, and destined to conduce incalculably to the development of the resources of Virginia.

"Mr. Reed remained fourteen years in the employ of the company and at his withdrawal was made the recipient of a series of resolutions passed by the company expressing regret at his withdrawal and generously recognizing the efficiency and integrity which had ever marked his conduct in the discharge of the responsible position so long occupied by him, at Scottsville.

“From Scottsville Mr. Reed removed to the city of Wheeling where he engaged in business for himself. From thence he went to Woodstock in Va., when the ‘Mother of Presidents’ was in the throes of revolution. Mr. Reed had no sympathy for the mad revolt in which the State was ready to plunge and averred from the outset of the clamor against the ascendancy of the Republican party, that should Virginia secede from the Union he would exercise his prerogative as an American citizen and secede from Virginia. The question of dissolving the ties which bound Virginia to the confederacy of States being submitted to a vote of the citizens of Shenandoah county, and a majority being claimed by those favoring secession, Mr. Reed broke away from his unfavorable environment and took up his abode in Chambersburg, where he has resided ever since and expects to spend the balance of his days.”

He was a Presbyterian, and one of those who organized the Central Presbyterian Church of Chambersburg, Pa.

He lived in Bangor, Me., moved there about 1833. He was an active business man, commenced business in Boston in partnership with his brother Quincy in the wholesale shoe business, when he was eighteen years of age. He was the opposite in character to his brother Quincy, who was slow in movement and very cautious. In 1833 he removed to Bangor, Me., and engaged in the lumber business, employing a large number of men. He was one of the old time lumber merchants. He died suddenly in his lumber camp one hundred miles from home, of congestion of the lungs.

Summary of the Study

The study was conducted over a period of ten years, from 1910 to 1920. It involved a total of 600 cases, with an average of 60 cases per year. The data shows a steady increase in the number of cases over the period, starting at 100 in 1910 and reaching 600 in 1930. This represents a 500% increase in the number of cases over the ten-year period.

Conclusions

The results of this study indicate that the number of cases has increased significantly over the past decade. This increase may be due to a variety of factors, including changes in the environment, population growth, and improved medical care. Further research is needed to determine the exact causes of this increase and to develop effective strategies for preventing and treating the condition.

b. Nov. 19, 1798, at Rehoboth, Mass.; d. Sept. 30, 1838, at Ware, Mass.

m. Nov. 17, 1824, Melinda Borden of Fall River; b. Jan. 13, 1805; d. Dec. 24, 1894, age 89 years, at Westfield, Mass. She was a daughter of William and Sarah (Durfee) Borden. After the death of her husband she married a Mr. Eddy.

This Augustus Reed and family changed the orthography from Reed to Read. He graduated from Brown University in 1821, and was prepared for college under the instruction of his pastor, the Rev. Mr. Thompson, with whom, after his graduation, he read theology. On the 2nd day of June, 1823, just twenty years before the great fire, he was ordained and installed pastor of the first Congregational Church of Fall River, at a salary of $450 a year. Mr. Reed was dismissed from the pastorate Aug. 3, 1825. He then settled in Ware, Mass., where he died Sept. 30, 1838, aged 39 years.

He was a chairman of the school committee, a Whig, an anti-Mason, and temperance advocate. He was 5 ft. 10 ins. in height, light complexion, blue eyes, slender, considered honorable, social, benevolent according to slender means, of considerable influence.

John Reed, son of John and Deborah (Baldwin) Reed.

b. (at Putney, Vt.) May 11, 1781; d. (at Cortland, N. Y.) Dec. 19, 1868.

The first part of the book is devoted to a general introduction to the subject of the history of the United States. It covers the period from the discovery of the continent to the present time. The author discusses the various theories of the origin of the name 'America' and the early explorations of the continent. He also touches upon the early settlements and the growth of the colonies.

The second part of the book is devoted to a detailed account of the American Revolution. It begins with the first steps towards independence, the signing of the Declaration of Independence, and the outbreak of the war. The author describes the major battles, the role of the Continental Congress, and the eventual victory of the United States. He also discusses the impact of the Revolution on the young nation and the development of its government.

The third part of the book is devoted to a history of the United States from the end of the Revolution to the present time. It covers the period of the early republic, the expansion of the United States, the Civil War, and the Reconstruction period. The author discusses the various political and social movements of the time, the role of the Supreme Court, and the development of the United States as a major world power.

The fourth part of the book is devoted to a history of the United States from the end of the Reconstruction period to the present time. It covers the period of the Gilded Age, the Progressive Era, the World Wars, and the Cold War. The author discusses the various political and social movements of the time, the role of the United States in the world, and the development of the United States as a superpower.

m. March 15, 1803, Joanna Wilson; b. at Putney, Jan. 29, 1782; d. at Cortland, Sept. 23, 1866.

Moved from Vermont to Worcester, Otsego county, N. Y., from there to Cortland, N. Y. On March 5, 1812, which was before the forests of that section had felt the woodman's axe, he cleared the land and built a log house within two miles of where the beautiful town of Cortland now stands. In 1819 he built a frame house, which was the first one built in the town. He had a common school education. His occupation was farming and his religion Methodist. He was a stout, fine looking man 5 1/2 feet, with a florid complexion and blue eyes. Joanna was large and strong with blue eyes, she had a strong mind and was a devout woman. They were a quiet, energetic couple, and did their work well in that new and then frontier country. In her younger days she was a great weaver and made nearly or quite all the cloth used in their house, and wove many of those heavy coverlids for the bed which are now held in such high esteem as relics of the olden time. It can be said of John Reed and his descendants that they are not addicted to the use of tobacco or intoxicating drinks.

Anthony Reed led a very active business life in his native town of Dighton, Mass., and was connected intimately with its prosperity from 1830 to 1854. In the latter year he removed with his family to Milford, Mass., and in 1856, to Nininger Territory of Minnesota, where he engaged in building and manufacturing. He was one of the early white settlers of that territory. He held various county and town offices and maintained an unblemished record in every line of life, whether in business, politically or socially, and so imbued his children that the name continues untarnished in their lives.

In his every effort he was aided by an exceptionally good wife and helpmate, it is safe to assert that no one of the William Reed stock (his father) has ever failed to pay his debts dollar for dollar, support their families in comfort, nor has any one of their hundreds of descendants ever been accused of crime. The record is clear.

He and his wife received a common school education, were Universalists. He was five feet eleven inches in height, light complexion, light blue eyes, curly auburn hair, weight 170 pounds, quick speaker, was a student in science and a great general reader. Was Free-Soil and a Republican.

Seth Reed had a very limited education; his wife was well educated and taught school. They lived in Dighton, where he was a farmer and shoemaker; he was a Congregationalist, his wife was a Baptist and a member of the church for over sixty years. She was very good looking, a good conversationalist and had an uncommon memory. He had quite a musical talent and succeeded his father as choir leader. His voice was remarkably melodious and he was familiar with the church music that prevailed in New England, in the early years of this century, and was passionately fond of singing. His wife's ancestors in the male line had lived in Dighton from its early settlement and on the same farm.

The first meeting of the Royal Society was held on 28th December 1660, at Gresham College, London. It was the result of the efforts of Francis Bacon, Robert Boyle, and Christopher Wren, who had been working together since the 1640s to promote a new scientific method based on experiment and observation.

The society was originally known as the 'Worshipful Society of the Astronomers and Philosophers in London'. Its members were drawn from the ranks of the clergy, the nobility, and the gentry, and its early meetings were held in private homes.

The society's early work was largely devoted to the study of natural philosophy, which at that time encompassed what we now call physics, chemistry, and astronomy. It was in this field that the society made its most significant contributions, particularly in the work of Boyle and Wren.

b. ———, 1789; d. Aug. 28, 1853, aged 64.

m. Aug. 2, 1814, Miranda Morton, daughter of Justin and Esther (Harding) Morton, of Whately. Resided on the west side of Chestnut Plain street, Whately.

The following abstracts are taken from the history of the town of Whately, Mass.:

“Simeon Reed owned the house and lot where David Callahan resides. There was a small house on the place, containing one room, pantry and bedroom, when he bought it, in 1823. He built a nice cottage house. He was a wheelwright and had a shop on the place, a progressive man and good workman.”—p. 107.

“As a consequence of Governor Strong’s position, the United States troops were withdrawn from Massachusetts, and the entire coast was left exposed to hostile invasion. In this emergency, early in the fall of 1814, the governor called out the chartered companies and made a requisition for troops to be drafted from the state militia.

“In answer to this call, the Whately Rifle Greens, under command of Capt. Amos Pratt, marched 15th September, 1814, for a three months’ campaign. They were stationed, most of the time, ‘On the South Boston shore opposite Fort Independence,’ and were attached to the battalion in command of Maj. William Ward of Worthington. The company was discharged 28 October.”—p. 240.

On the muster roll of the Whately Rifle Greens, who went to Boston, September, 1814, appears the name of Simeon Reed, drummer.

CHAPTER I
THE EARLY HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES

The first European settlement in North America was established by the English in 1607 at Jamestown, Virginia. This colony was the first permanent English settlement in the New World.

The Pilgrims, a group of English separatists, established the Plymouth colony in 1620. They are famous for the first Thanksgiving in 1621, a celebration of their first successful harvest.

The French established several colonies in North America, including Quebec in 1608 and Louisiana in 1763. The French and Indian War (1754-1763) was fought between the British and the French for control of the continent.

The American Revolution (1775-1783) was a war fought between the thirteen original colonies and Great Britain. The colonies declared independence in 1776 and won the war, leading to the formation of the United States of America.

m. July 19, 1845, Mary Elizabeth Chessman, of Auburn, N. Y.; she died Dec. 1894, in Orange, N. J.

In the spring of 1836, his father having died in Oct. of the year previous, he left home to live with his mother's brother, Thomas M. Hunt, of Auburn, N. Y. He was a member of his family, and a clerk in his drug store for a period of about ten years.

In Jan. 1845, when twenty-two years of age, he went to Chicago to establish a drug business for himself, assisted by way of capital and credit by his uncle and other friends. Chicago was then a city of about 10,000 inhabitants. He continued in the drug business there until 1867, his firm being J. H. Reed & Co. From a small beginning his business grew to be, at the time he left it, one of the largest of its kind in the United States. In 1858 he moved his residence to New York city, but continued active, however, in the management of his business, importing and purchasing supplies for the Chicago house. He retired from that business in 1867, and was out of business for the next eight years.

In 1875 he entered business again, forming a partnership with William H. Flagg, now located at 11 Pine street, New York City, dealers in railroad bonds of the highest grade. His business record has always been good, having always met promptly every obligation. During the last thirty-one years he has been a resident of Orange, N. J., and for nineteen years has been a regular communicant in the First Presbyterian Church, Orange, and for the best part of the time was also elder in that church. He has never been prominent in politics, but always exercised his rights as a citizen, voting with the Republican party.

Of East Orange, N. J.

He furnished the compiler of this work the data for tracing of the whole of the descendants of his ancestor Samuel Reed (205), son of Ezekiel and Hannah (Beal) Reed, of whom I had no record, and I desire here to make acknowledgment of his valuable assistance in the work. He furnishes the following brief sketch of his own career: "All men are proud of their military record, so am I. This is my only apology for the following and some other sketches that I have introduced. I enlisted in April, 1861; helped organize Co. 'H' 2nd Wis. Infantry. Was wounded and taken prisoner at first Bull Run battle. In prison ten and a half months in Libby Prison, and at Tuscaloosa, Ala., and Salisbury, N. C. In parole camp two months at St. Louis, Mo. Exchanged and returned to the front, was again wounded and taken prisoner at first day at Gettysburg, Pa., was so severely wounded that I could not be shipped South, and was paroled and left behind. On account of my wounds, was transferred to the Veteran Reserve Corps or 'Invalid Corps,' where I finished my three years and was discharged June 11, 1864. I went to Missouri and joined in the chase after Gen'l Sterling Price, and was at the killing of the celebrated guerilla and bushwhacker 'Bill Anderson.'

"In 1866 I returned to Washington, D. C., and married Miss Belle Brown, daughter of Edmund F. Brown, U. S. Commissioner, &c. Father Brown wrote, but never published a genealogy on both his father's and mother's side dating back to 1625. I wish to state here, that his example in that effort is my inspiration to the enterprise of collecting the genealogy of my own family. A few will appreciate my labors, but many, many more will deem it time and labor wasted."

CHAPTER I

The first part of the book is devoted to a general introduction to the subject. It discusses the scope and objectives of the study, and outlines the methodological approach. The author also provides a brief overview of the historical development of the field, and identifies the key concepts and theories that will be explored in more detail in the subsequent chapters.

The second part of the book focuses on the theoretical framework. It examines the various models and theories that have been developed to explain the phenomena under investigation. The author critically evaluates these models, highlighting their strengths and limitations, and identifies the gaps in the current theoretical understanding.

The third part of the book is dedicated to the empirical research. It describes the design of the study, the data collection methods, and the analysis techniques used. The author presents the results of the study, and discusses the implications of these findings for the theoretical framework and for practice.

The final part of the book is a conclusion and a discussion of the future research agenda. The author summarizes the main findings of the study, and reflects on the broader implications of the research. It also identifies the key areas for further investigation, and provides suggestions for future studies.

He was a farmer, and lived in Abington for 32 years, he also lived in East Madison, Me. Communicant of Congregational Church, Republican. He had a very noble character, strong will, and unswerving fidelity to principles of right. His life is worthy of note not only that he attained the great age of 102 years; but to mention his life labors, the vigor and rectitude of all his acts, could they be written, could be worthily placed among the memories of the world's best men. His children and grandchildren inherit his strong will, and unswerving fidelity to principles of right, and abhorrence of vice and wrong doing in any form.

The first part of the book is devoted to a general history of the world, from the beginning of time to the present day. It is divided into three main periods: the ancient world, the middle ages, and the modern world. Each period is further divided into smaller sections, covering different regions and events. The author provides a detailed account of the political, social, and cultural changes that have shaped the world over time.

The second part of the book is a history of the British Empire, from its beginnings in the 16th century to its decline in the 20th century. It covers the expansion of the empire across the globe, the role of the British in the industrial revolution, and the impact of the empire on the world. The author discusses the political and economic factors that led to the rise and fall of the empire, and the legacy it has left behind.

The third part of the book is a history of the United States, from its founding in 1776 to the present day. It covers the American Revolution, the early years of the republic, the westward expansion, and the Civil War. The author discusses the political and social changes that have shaped the United States, and the role of the United States in the world.

The fourth part of the book is a history of the world from 1914 to the present day. It covers the First World War, the Russian Revolution, the Second World War, and the Cold War. The author discusses the political and social changes that have shaped the world in the 20th century, and the role of the United States and the Soviet Union.

Lived in Boston throughout his whole life; graduating from the English High School in class of 1822. He entered the china trade, making a number of voyages to Canton as supercargo of different vessels, notably the "Henry Tuke" and "Bombay." On one of the voyages an incident occurred that showed the quality of the young man. The vessel was returning from Canton with a valuable cargo on board when the crew of the vessel mutinied, murdering the captain and mates, but were overawed by the unflinching bravery and spirited action of young Reed, who took command of the vessel, bringing her with the valuable cargo safely into the port of Boston, and he was handsomely rewarded by the owners. During his life he occupied many positions of trust and responsibility; among others he was treasurer of the Massachusetts Nautical School, and Wharfinger of Commercial wharf for many years.

Mr. Reed was the owner of the old Reed farm in Bolton, which had been owned in the family for 150 years. The last deed dated back to 1805. It embraced 207 acres, equally divided into mowing, tillage, pasture and timber land; and is most eligibly located, being directly opposite the historic Wilder mansion. The property is the highest point of land between Boston and Mt. Wachusett; quality of soil the finest, with an abundance of fruit trees; purest of running spring water and the surroundings delightful. For a home it is unsurpassed. It was sold by his executors in Oct., 1897, to close the estate.

up to the time of his death. He was also for many years Grand Secretary of the Odd Fellows of Virginia. He was a fine scholar. The compiler of this work had the pleasure of knowing him personally, and knew him as a man of singular purity and loveliness of character. His influence over his companions, his courtesy of manner and his spotless life all combined to make him a perfect man, a Christian gentleman. Being a fine musician and a person of literary pursuits and taste, he was an ornament to the most refined society. He was highly esteemed by the Odd Fellows of Virginia and their Grand Lodge passed the following resolutions of esteem at the time he was compelled by ill health to resign the active duties of the Grand Secretary:

“Whereas, P. G. David H. Reed, late Grand Secretary of the R. W. Grand Lodge of Virginia, in consequence of painful and lingering illness under which he is still suffering, has been unable to attend our sessions, and this Grand body has been compelled to transfer to another the important office so long and so ably filled by our Bro. Reed; and whereas it would be doing injustice to this body were it to close its session without giving expression to the feelings of deep sensibility with which it has heard of the illness of Bro. Reed, and its high appreciation as an officer and as an Odd Fellow; therefore be it Resolved, That the R. W. Grand Lodge of Virginia yields, with painful emotion and deep regret to the afflictive dispensation which has taken from it the most faithful, able and accomplished officer ever enlisted in its service.

“Resolved, That during the long period the office of Grand Secretary of this Grand Lodge has been held by our Bro. David H. Reed, he has exhibited a fidelity and ability, accompanied with a courtesy and fraternal kindness, which has won for him the confidence and love of the whole jurisdiction to an extent never heretofore enjoyed by any other man.

“Resolved, That a diploma upon which these resolutions shall be engrossed, shall be drawn up, signed by the Grand

Of Baltimore, Md.

In early manhood he was induced by his uncle J. Henry Stickney, to come to Baltimore and accept a position in his counting house, and later he went to Chicago and remained there over winter, when Chicago was a small but growing place. He concluded however, not to locate there. He returned to Baltimore, and accepted a place as clerk with his uncle's firm, Stickney and Noyes and later with Stickney and Beatty. On the dissolution of the latter firm he was given an interest in the business, which was continued under the name of Stickney & Co. In the fall of 1860, his health having failed, he withdrew from the firm and went to Cuba to try and regain his health but returned no better, and died in the spring of 1861. He was a Presbyterian.

JOHN L. REED.

He is the author of this work, and was brought up at Scottsville, Va. Removed from there with his father and the family to Wheeling, W. Va., and thence to Baltimore, where he was employed by the firm of Stickney & Co., which comprised his uncle J. Henry Stickney and brother Henry C. Reed; upon the failure of his brother's health in 1860 he was given an interest in the firm. In 1872 upon the retirement of his uncle from active business the style of the firm was changed to Reed, Stickney & Co., comprising himself, with William Harvey and Geo. H. Stickney as general partners, and his uncle J. Henry Stickney as special partner. They did a coal shipping and iron commission business. He is a Presbyterian and has occupied many positions of prominence in connection with that denomination since his residence in Baltimore. Has filled the position of ruling elder in Westminster and later in the Boundary Ave. Churches. Has been treasurer of the Presbyterian Association for Church Extension in the city for twenty-six years, and is also treasurer for the Board of Governors of the Presbyterian Eye, Ear and Throat Charity Hospital. He was in the service for a short time during the Civil War as Sergeant in Capt. Ehler's Company, under Gen. Tyler, being a member of the Balto. City Guard, who offered their services when Maryland was invaded and Baltimore was threatened, which were accepted by the Government and the company assigned to the Relay House camp near Balto. to take the place of regular soldiers who had been stationed there and whom it was necessary to withdraw to meet the enemy then on Maryland soil.

The first part of the book is devoted to a general history of the world, from the beginning of time to the present day. The author discusses the various stages of human civilization, from the earliest times to the modern era. He covers the development of agriculture, the rise of cities, and the growth of empires. The second part of the book is a detailed account of the history of the British Empire, from its beginnings in the 16th century to its decline in the 20th century. The author describes the expansion of the empire across the globe, the role of the British in the industrial revolution, and the impact of the empire on the world. The third part of the book is a study of the political and social changes that have shaped the modern world. The author examines the rise of democracy, the growth of the nation-state, and the challenges of the 20th century. The book is written in a clear and concise style, and is suitable for both students and general readers.

APPENDIX

This appendix contains a list of the principal events and dates mentioned in the text. It is arranged in chronological order, and includes a brief description of each event. The appendix is intended to provide a quick reference for the reader, and to help in the study of the history of the world. The events listed include the birth of Christ, the fall of the Roman Empire, the discovery of America, the French Revolution, and the two world wars. The appendix is a valuable tool for anyone interested in the history of the world.

The first part of the book is devoted to a description of the various forms of government which have existed in the world. It begins with a general definition of government, and then proceeds to a detailed account of the different kinds of monarchies, aristocracies, and democracies. The author discusses the advantages and disadvantages of each form, and compares them with one another. He also touches upon the subject of mixed governments, and the influence of religion and philosophy on the development of political institutions.

Attended the public schools of Taunton and the academy. During vacation he would assist his father, as a clerk in his store. He early developed a marked mechanical taste and skill, making a collection of wood-working tools, and spending much of his leisure time in the use of them; planning and making useful articles for the family, and miniature vessels and toys for his schoolmates.

Thus early did he give promise of the distinguished career that was before him. When eighteen, he entered the shop

It is the policy of the Association to publish in this journal only such articles as are deemed to be of general interest to the medical profession.

Articles for consideration should be sent to the Editor, American Medical Association, 535 North Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill. 60610. They should be accompanied by a letter from the author stating the title of the article and the name of the journal in which it is desired to publish it.

Articles should be written in English and should be clearly and concisely stated. They should be well organized and should be free from errors of fact and logic. They should be written in a straightforward, unpretentious style.

References should be given in full in the text of the article. They should be given in the following form: Author's name, Title of article, Journal, Volume, Number, Page, Year.

of Babbitt & Crossman, as an apprentice, continuing with them till 1831. When in 1835, the Taunton Britannia Manufacturing Company suspended operations, Henry G. Reed and Chas. E. Barton, two young men, who had been in its employ, with small capital but with abundant industry and considerable knowledge of the business, formed a partnership of Reed and Barton, which firm gained a reputation second to none in the country in that line of goods. Barton long since died, but the firm name, known in all parts of the civilized world, still survives, George Brabrook filling the place of Barton, and the holders of the estate of Henry H. Fish, deceased, being also represented in the corporation. They are now known as silversmiths and manufacturers of electro-plated nickel silver and white metal wares. Mr. Reed was the last survivor of the original firm, and the founder of the business.

No citizen of Taunton held a larger place in the esteem and confidence of the entire community. He had been director in the Taunton National Bank since 1851, trustee of the Taunton Savings Bank since its organization, an interested member and officer of the Associated Charities since their beginning, a liberal life member of the Old Colony Historical Society and president of the Reed family meetings, ever since the men of the former generations passed away.

Hon. Chester Isham Reed (of Dedham), son of William and Elizabeth (Dennis) Reed.

b. Nov. 25, 1823; d. Sept. 2, 1873, at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

m. Feb. 24, 1851, Elizabeth Allyne.

Chester Isham Reed was born in Taunton November 25, 1823. He was the son of William and Elizabeth Deane (Dennis) Reed. His ancestry on both sides can be traced back to the earlier settlers of the country. He received his early education in the Taunton High School and the Bristol Academy, then taught by Mr. Frederick Crafts. He entered Brown University in the class of 1845. With all his schoolmates he was a favorite. While he was a good scholar, no boy or young man was ever more fond of play when outside the schoolroom. Circumstances in his father's family prevented the completion of his college course, and he left Brown and commenced the study of law in the office of General David Bachelder in Gardiner, Me.

After being admitted to the bar in that State, he immediately returned to his old home in Taunton and commenced the practice of his profession. For a year or more he edited the "Old Colony Republican." In 1848, he formed a partnership with Anselm Bassett, Esq., then register of probate.

This partnership continued some fifteen years until Mr. Bassett's death. The firm of Bassett & Reed shortly acquired a very extensive practice throughout Bristol and Plymouth counties. At the age of twenty-six Mr. Reed represented Taunton in the Legislature. He was for several years judge of the Police Court. In 1858, and again in 1862, he served in the State Senate. But his time was given almost exclusively to his profession, in which he excelled.

Judge Bigelow of the Supreme Court writes to him, under date of February 23, 1857, Mr. Reed then being thirty-four years of age:

"There is no member of the bar, in any part of the State, who prepares his cases with greater fidelity or who is listened to with greater attention or pleasure than yourself."

In the ninth volume of Allen's Reports he appears on one side or the other in eighteen cases before the Supreme Court.

In 1864, Mr. Reed, as a Republican, was elected attorney-general and held the office until his appointment to the Superior Court in 1867.

At this time he removed from Taunton to Dedham where he passed the remainder of his life. In 1870, he resigned from the Superior Court and resumed the practice of law in the various State and United States Courts, maintaining a high position as an advocate, and held in great esteem as a judicious counselor. He had filled many public stations with credit to himself and benefit to the public, and never was a shade cast upon his character for the strictest integrity. He had arrived at that age with his varied experience that made him one of the useful men of the Commonwealth.

In the maturity of his intellectual and with no apparent impairment of his physical powers, he had every reason to expect a long and pleasant autumn of life, where though the toil might be continuous it would be for those he loved and with the prospect of a golden harvest.

Although of an apparently robust physique he had been for some time afflicted with an obscure disease which medical science proved wholly unable to combat, and in 1873, his health failed before it. He died September 2, at the White Sulphur Springs in West Virginia, where he had gone with the hope of benefit from the waters. He was a learned and accomplished lawyer, an honorable and high-minded man. Some one writing at the time of his death said:

"In his feelings, conduct and conversation he was habitually as pure and gentle as a child. In his own family his presence was perpetual sunshine. In his personal friendships he was warm, disinterested, generous and if need be, heroic."

Said another:

"As a lawyer he was zealous for his clients but fair and courteous to his opponents. He despised all trickery and never descended to low arts to gain a cause."

Hon. George Marston said of him:

"As a judge he was patient, faithful, competent and fearless. He was spotless in his integrity. In all his public and private relations he was without fear and without reproach."

Judge Pitman says:

"He was patient with most things but impatient of shams. In whatsoever sphere he moved he was one of the most genuine of men. As an advocate he had little of the art to make the worse appear the better reason. To dissemble was not in his nature."

Judge Reed married Elizabeth Y. Allyne, of New Bedford, Mass., February 24, 1851. They had two children: Sybil, born January 21, 1858, she was a sweet, lovely child who died in early youth; Chester Allyne, born April 28, 1860, a graduate of Harvard University in 1881, now practicing law in Boston, a resident of Dedham with his mother.

Prepared by his sister, Mrs. S. H. Emery.

m. Aug. 30, 1837, Ellen Augusta Godfrey, daughter of Chas. and Hannah (Shaw) Godfrey.

He was a member of the Winslow Church for 45 years, Supt. of the S. S. for 3 or 4 years, Pres. of the North Bristol Congregational Club for 3 years. Alderman in Taunton in 1865 and 1868, Rep. to General Court in 1869, Dea. of Congregational Church since 1862.

Of Taunton, Mass.

He took a just pride in his parentage (see the record of his father) and it was his delight to note and record all which related to the early history of the family, thereby creating and fostering a taste for genealogical research in general. Mr. Reed has long been known in the town and city of his birth as a most enthusiastic antiquarian and accurate genealogist. His search for dates and inscriptions on gravestones, records in registry was an unceasing work, a genuine labor of love, and his accumulation of valuable material for family and town history, as a consequence, is very large. His son-in-law, Geo. A. Washburn, Esq., in custody of this material, is often called upon to contribute of his stores for the benefit of anxious inquirers.

To such a man and such a mind, the Old Colony Historical Society, incorporated in Taunton in 1853, made a strong appeal and both he and his father were early and interested members, the father having been the first treasurer, and the son the first recording secretary and librarian. At the time of his death he was historiographer.

Lest it should be supposed the subject of our sketch confined himself to historical matters, it may be added, as a young man, he commenced business in Taunton, which he continued without interruption until he was quoted as the oldest merchant on Main street, a lifelong friend, Mr. George M. Woodward, saying of him:

“A man of marked individuality, of sterling integrity, of strong common sense and of sound practical judgment. Cautious, even timid perhaps in untried enterprises, prudent and safe in all his business methods, he has been known for half a century as an honorable and successful merchant. Similar characteristics marked his religious life, quiet, cautious, with regard to new methods and new statements of doctrine, he had a genuine and experimental knowledge of the Lord Jesus Christ as a personal Saviour. The church of his choice was a part of his being. It did much for him because he did so much for it."

This sketch was prepared by Rev. S. Hopkins Emery, drawn in part from a notice prepared by him for collection of Old Colony Historical Society No. 5.

He had a common school education, was fond of reading and acquiring knowledge. He was a farmer, owned land and a mine in Iowa. He lived in Cortland, N. Y., except five years in Seneca Falls, N. Y. He was a member of the M. E. Church, S. S. superintendent four years, and trustee of Cortland Academy, he was a kind neighbor and a good citizen. An obituary notice of him by his church reads "Brother Reed had been a resident of this valley for nearly seventy years, was a faithful and devoted member from the age of nineteen until his death. He was a quiet man, clear in his convictions, firm in his adhesion to principle and duty, and particularly demonstrative in his religious life, but even and constant in his experience. The few last years of his life he was enfeebled by disease, but able to attend public worship until within a few months of his death. He was a good man and has left to his children the precious legacy of an untarnished name."

 m. 2nd. Jan. 26, 1880, Mary Elizabeth Barker, daughter of Dea. Josiah Barker of South Hanson, Mass.

Claims that he and his father's family have always adhered to the original way of spelling the name (Read) only dropping the final e.

Joseph graduated at Bridgewater, Mass., Normal School in 1850, afterwards attended some higher institutions, but graduated at no other.

Elizabeth Williams was educated at Titicut Select School and Pierce Academy, Middleborough, Mass. They lived in Hingham, Fall River, Dighton, Providencetown, Middleborough, Brewster, Belchertown, and South Hanson, all in Massachusetts. They were members of the Baptist Church. He was a teacher for twenty years up to 1867, after that date he was pastor of Baptist churches in Brewster, Belchertown, South Hanson, Pueblo, Colo., and Lyme Centre, N. H. Has served in several towns on school boards, enlisted in the 58th Mass. Regiment Feb. 17, 1864, and served until that regiment was discharged July 26, 1865.

Ranked as a private, discharged as a sergeant. Accompanied the regiment through the Wilderness campaign and siege of Petersburg. Was one of the half dozen belonging to the 58th who kept with it at the front and was neither killed, wounded or taken prisoner, nor sent back to the hospital sick.

Witnessed all the important battles in that memorable campaign, and took part in most of them. Saw his regiment captured twice, but both times managed to escape capture himself. Was detailed or acted in various capacities, as clerk, chaplain, company commander, and once as commander of the remnant of the regiment. Was in the midst of more danger than can be described, but no harm came to him, for God chose to preserve him for his own purpose.

The first part of the book is devoted to a general history of the world, from the beginning of time to the present day. The author discusses the various civilizations that have flourished on the earth, and the progress of human knowledge and industry. He also touches upon the political and social changes that have shaped the course of history.

In the second part, the author turns his attention to the history of the British Empire, from its early beginnings in the sixteenth century to its greatest extent in the nineteenth century. He describes the expansion of British power across the globe, and the role of the British in the development of modern nations.

The third part of the book is a detailed account of the American Revolution, from the first stirrings of dissent in the colonies to the final victory at Yorktown. The author explores the causes of the war, the struggles of the patriots, and the impact of the new nation on the world.

The fourth part of the book is a history of the French Revolution, from the storming of the Bastille to the fall of Napoleon. The author examines the ideals of liberty, equality, and fraternity that inspired the revolution, and the chaos and violence that followed.

The fifth part of the book is a history of the Napoleonic Wars, from the rise of Napoleon to his final defeat at Waterloo. The author discusses the military genius of Napoleon, the impact of his wars on Europe, and the restoration of the old order.

The sixth part of the book is a history of the Industrial Revolution, from the invention of the steam engine to the rise of the factory system. The author describes the changes in society and the economy that resulted from the new technology, and the social problems that arose.

The seventh part of the book is a history of the Crimean War, from its outbreak in 1853 to its conclusion in 1856. The author discusses the military and political aspects of the war, and the impact of the Crimean War on the world.

The eighth part of the book is a history of the American Civil War, from the secession of the Southern States to the final victory of the Union. The author explores the causes of the war, the struggles of the Union and the Confederacy, and the impact of the war on the nation.

The ninth part of the book is a history of the Franco-Prussian War, from its outbreak in 1870 to its conclusion in 1871. The author discusses the military and political aspects of the war, and the impact of the Franco-Prussian War on Europe.

The tenth part of the book is a history of the Boer War, from its outbreak in 1899 to its conclusion in 1902. The author discusses the military and political aspects of the war, and the impact of the Boer War on the world.

The eleventh part of the book is a history of the Russo-Japanese War, from its outbreak in 1904 to its conclusion in 1905. The author discusses the military and political aspects of the war, and the impact of the Russo-Japanese War on the world.

The twelfth part of the book is a history of the First World War, from its outbreak in 1914 to its conclusion in 1918. The author discusses the military and political aspects of the war, and the impact of the First World War on the world.

The thirteenth part of the book is a history of the Russian Revolution, from the fall of the Tsar to the rise of the Bolsheviks. The author discusses the causes of the revolution, the struggles of the Bolsheviks, and the impact of the Russian Revolution on the world.

The fourteenth part of the book is a history of the Second World War, from its outbreak in 1939 to its conclusion in 1945. The author discusses the military and political aspects of the war, and the impact of the Second World War on the world.

The fifteenth part of the book is a history of the Cold War, from its outbreak in 1945 to its conclusion in 1991. The author discusses the military and political aspects of the war, and the impact of the Cold War on the world.

The sixteenth part of the book is a history of the Vietnam War, from its outbreak in 1954 to its conclusion in 1975. The author discusses the military and political aspects of the war, and the impact of the Vietnam War on the world.

The seventeenth part of the book is a history of the Arab Spring, from its outbreak in 2011 to the present day. The author discusses the causes of the Arab Spring, the struggles of the Arab peoples, and the impact of the Arab Spring on the world.

The eighteenth part of the book is a history of the Syrian Civil War, from its outbreak in 2011 to the present day. The author discusses the causes of the Syrian Civil War, the struggles of the Syrian people, and the impact of the Syrian Civil War on the world.

The nineteenth part of the book is a history of the Russian-Ukrainian War, from its outbreak in 2014 to the present day. The author discusses the causes of the Russian-Ukrainian War, the struggles of the Ukrainian people, and the impact of the Russian-Ukrainian War on the world.

George W. Reed enlisted in Company K, 7th Mass. Vol. Infantry, April 27, 1861. Was commissioned as 1st Lieut., was ordered into camp June 13, 1861, mustered in June 15, 1861. Left camp for Washington July 12, 1861. Was stationed in Washington until March, 1862. Served through the Peninsula Campaign. In battles of Williamsburg, Fair Oaks, Glendale Farm, Malvern Hill, and during the Seven Days before Richmond, Va. After the battle of Williamsburg, Genl. Devens in command of the brigade, mentioned him very flatteringly in his report August 27, 1862. He was struck down with malaria, sent to Davids Island, N. Y. harbor, was discharged from the hospital at his own request, and sent to Washington with a detachment of convalescents. He was detailed for duty at the convalescent camp, then transferred to paroled prisoners camp, was in command the first fortnight. In November, 1862, he sent in his resignation on account of continued ill health, and on Dec. 17, 1862, he received an honorable discharge, dated Dec. 6, 1862. He was promoted captain August 1, 1861. Mr. Reed also represented the town of Abington at the General Court.

b. Dec. 2, 1838; d. July 1, 1890.

m. ———.

Was Capt. of Co. "A" 5th Iowa Regt. in the War of the Rebellion. The "National Tribune" of Washington says:
"He is in the Insane Hospital at Independence, Iowa, from the effects of a rebel bullet, at Champion Hill. As he raised his head to fire, he lost consciousness. He came to the next morning, when a comrade told him that he had been picked up on the field for dead and put into a trench with others and was about to be covered up, when a twitching of the limbs was noticed, and he was taken out; a rather close call he thinks. He was promoted to a captaincy, and held his position throughout the rest of the war, but while he lives he will suffer from the rebel lead."

For a while after Samuel returned home from the war he studied law, but owing to improper treatment of the wound in his head, his brain became affected and his reason tottered and he was sent to the hospital as before stated, where he died July 1, 1890.

b. April 23, 1830, at East Abington (now called Rockland) Mass.; d. Nov. 7, 1895.

m. Oct. 17, 1850, Amanda Wood, who was born at Quincy, Aug. 26, 1832. Her father's name was Henry Wood, he was born at Hollis, N. H. Her mother's maiden name was Sarah Hollis, who was born at Quincy, Mass.

Of Portland, Oregon.

From data furnished by himself, we have the following interesting sketch of the life of Simeon Gannett Reed:

He received a good New England education, and after leaving school at about the age of 15, he spent a year as a boy in a wholesale dry goods store in Boston. His wages were $75 the first year, and he had to board and clothe himself with a prospect of an increase of salary of $25 each year for the next two years.

The outlook did not seem very encouraging and boy-like he felt like making a change, so he gave up the dry goods business and went back to East Abington and learned the shoe cutter's trade at Jenkins Lane's. He soon got the hang of this and as the work was piece work he was more or less master of his own time, and yet he felt like getting into some business for himself. An opportunity finally presented itself, and he embarked in the grain and flour business at Quincy, Mass., when about 18 years of age, and while there married his wife.

He left Quincy for California in the spring of 1852, remained in San Francisco until after the big Sacramento fire of that year, when he came to Oregon with the expectation of buying lumber, but as he could not buy lumber he bought a lot of flour and shipped it by steamer to San Francisco where he sold it to good advantage.

Not succeeding in establishing himself in any permanent business in California, and having thought all the time that Oregon was a good country for a young man to start in and grow up with, he returned to Oregon in the spring of 1853, where he resided until his death.

He first started a small lumber business at Rainer on the Columbia river, opposite the mouth of the Corrlitz, and finally sold out his business there and took a position with W. S. Ladd & Co. of Portland and remained there until Mr. Ladd went into the banking business, when in connection with his two brothers they bought Ladd Brothers out, and went into business under the firm name of Ladd, Reed & Co., they were in business for a number of years and were very successful.

He was one of the original incorporators of the Oregon Steam Navigation Co. in 1860, was elected vice-president of the company in 1864, and retained that position until July, 1879, when the company sold out to Henry Villard and merged into the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co., of which latter company he was vice-president and manager until he resigned in 1880.

He was also more or less identified with the mining inter-

The first part of the book is devoted to a general history of the world, from the beginning of time to the present day. It is written in a clear and concise style, and is well illustrated with maps and diagrams. The author's knowledge of the subject is extensive, and his treatment is impartial and objective.

The second part of the book is devoted to a detailed history of the British Empire, from its beginnings in the sixteenth century to its decline in the nineteenth century. It is written in a clear and concise style, and is well illustrated with maps and diagrams. The author's knowledge of the subject is extensive, and his treatment is impartial and objective.

The third part of the book is devoted to a detailed history of the United States, from its beginnings in the eighteenth century to its decline in the nineteenth century. It is written in a clear and concise style, and is well illustrated with maps and diagrams. The author's knowledge of the subject is extensive, and his treatment is impartial and objective.

The fourth part of the book is devoted to a detailed history of the French Revolution, from its beginnings in the eighteenth century to its decline in the nineteenth century. It is written in a clear and concise style, and is well illustrated with maps and diagrams. The author's knowledge of the subject is extensive, and his treatment is impartial and objective.

The fifth part of the book is devoted to a detailed history of the Napoleonic Wars, from their beginning in 1803 to their end in 1815. It is written in a clear and concise style, and is well illustrated with maps and diagrams. The author's knowledge of the subject is extensive, and his treatment is impartial and objective.

ests of the northwest. First in building a water ditch for placer mining some thirty miles long in Baker county, Oregon, and afterward in the purchase and development of a free-gold bearing quartz mine on Conner creek, a tributary of Snake river, located about twenty miles below Huntington station, on the Oregon Short Line Railroad in Baker county. That mine has a thirty-five stamp mill run by water power and has been in successful operation for a number of years.

He was also interested with A. Onderdonk and D. O. Mills in the contract for building the Canadian Pacific Railway in British Columbia. The contract was from Port Moody (on Burrard's inlet) to Kamloop's lake, the work was heavy and amounted to several million dollars.

He also organized "The Oregon Iron and Steel Co.," of which he was president and the largest stockholder. The location of the company's works was on the Willamette river, seven miles south of Portland. They had a fine vein of brown hematite ore, from seven to fourteen feet wide, and extensive water power, and unlimited fir timber for charcoal. They had two and a half miles of narrow gauge railroad, connecting the mine with their works, which consisted of a first-class blast furnace with fire-brick stoves and all modern improvements, with a capacity of fifty tons of pig iron a day; also a twenty-five-ton cast-iron pipe plant (the only one on the Pacific coast). He went somewhat into detail regarding his connection with the iron business, because he thought it would cut quite a figure in the future development of the coast.

In 1887 he purchased the celebrated "Bunker Hill and Sullivan Mines," located near the town of Wardner in the Coeur D'Alene district, Idaho Territory. They were silver and lead mines, and were the largest producers in the district, having produced in twenty-three months and twenty-six days from the time the concentrator started up, 15,255.96 tons of concentrates of the gross value of $1,353,008.21; the average assay being thirty ounces of silver and sixty-eight per cent lead per ton.

The history of the United States is a story of growth and change. From the first European settlements to the present day, the nation has expanded its territory and diversified its economy. The early years were marked by the struggle for independence and the establishment of a new government. The middle years saw the westward expansion and the rise of industry. The late years have been characterized by the challenges of the world wars and the civil rights movement. The United States has always been a land of opportunity and innovation, and its history continues to shape the world today.

He was quite extensively interested in farming and fine stock. Had one farm of over 3000 acres in the Willamette valley in high cultivation with over fifteen miles of Osage Orange hedge, and well stocked with imported Clydesdale stallions and mares, Clydesdale bays, short-horn cattle, Cotswold and Leicester sheep and Berkshire pigs.

He was somewhat interested in Portland, Oregon, real estate, having erected a five-story office building 100 by 100 with elevator and all modern improvements, heated throughout with steam, which he named the "Abington Building" after his native town.

The first part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the problem, and to a statement of the results which will be proved in the subsequent sections.

In the second part we consider the case of a single particle, and show that the motion is periodic, and that the period is independent of the energy.

In the third part we consider the case of a system of two particles, and show that the motion is periodic, and that the period is independent of the energy.

In the fourth part we consider the case of a system of three particles, and show that the motion is periodic, and that the period is independent of the energy.

In the fifth part we consider the case of a system of four particles, and show that the motion is periodic, and that the period is independent of the energy.

In the sixth part we consider the case of a system of five particles, and show that the motion is periodic, and that the period is independent of the energy.

In the seventh part we consider the case of a system of six particles, and show that the motion is periodic, and that the period is independent of the energy.

In the eighth part we consider the case of a system of seven particles, and show that the motion is periodic, and that the period is independent of the energy.

In the ninth part we consider the case of a system of eight particles, and show that the motion is periodic, and that the period is independent of the energy.
